STATE STATUTES:

California Business & Professions Code §17200 et seq	11
California Code of Civil Procedure §585(d)	1
California Code of Civil Procedure §1011(b)	6,

Plaintiff Alyssa Backlund (“Plaintiff”) submits the following brief to assist the court with default prove-up in this matter pursuant to CCP §585(d):

DESCRIPTION OF CASE

Identification of the Parties:

1. The Plaintiff in this case is ALYSSA BACKLUND. Plaintiff is an individual over the age of 18 and a California resident.

2. Defendant CHRISTOPHER STONE aka CHRISTOPHER J. WATERMEIER (“Defendant” or “Stone”) is an individual who has a Los Angeles, California post office mailing address on file with the Clerk of this Court. Stone’s last known address is 460 S. Spring Street #1105, Los Angeles, CA 90013. Stone sold his residence on or about February 15, 2013, and has not provided Plaintiff’s counsel or the Court with a new physical address. Attached hereto as Exhibit A is a true and correct copy of the Statement of Damages and proof of service on Stone.

3. Defendant ELITE IMAGING CONCEPTS, LLC (“ELITE”) is a New York Limited Liability company with a physical address listed on the New York State Department of State Divisions of Corporations Entity Information website of 71 Hill Street, Suite G, Southampton, New York, 11968. On June 25, 2013, an unsuccessful attempt to personally serve a Statement of Damages at the physical address listed with the New York State Department of State Divisions of Corporations Entity Information for the company by a process server confirmed that there is no suite G at the listed address. The process server also confirmed with neighbors that ELITE is not located at the office address of 71 Hill Street, Southampton, New York. Attached hereto as Exhibit B is a true and correct copy of the Statement of Damages and proof of service served on ELITE.

Nature of Plaintiff’s Claims:

Early morning, on or about November 20, 2009, Defendants CHRISTOPHER STONE,

1 aka CHRISTOPHER J. WATERMEIER, and ELITE IMAGING CONCEPTS, LLC (collectively
2 known as “Defendants”) posted an image on the Stickydrama website of an underage teenage
3 female masturbating next to an infant (“False Post”) with a heading incorrectly and negligently
4 identifying the female in the image as Plaintiff and publishing Plaintiff’s contact information in 5 connection with the image. The image was viewed by thousands of visitors to the Stickydrama
6 website. Defendants economically prospered from increased traffic on their website as a result of 7 the number of hits for his post. Defendants published a screen capture and wrote the following
8 commentary; “Early this morning Stickydrama was sent a[n] image that appears to depict Alyssa
9 Marie [Backlund] masturbating next to an infant. Such an act, in addition to being morally
10 repugnant, probably violates several statutes pertaining to exposing children to obscenity.”
11 Defendants then promoted the Stickydrama website on other social media sites stating “[Plaintiff
12 is] ‘the-most-vile-camwhore-alive’” with a link to the Stickydrama.com website.

15 Viewers expressed their reactions to the image by writing text in a section on Defendants’
16 website designated for comments. The image identified Plaintiff as the teenage female in the 17 image. Consequently, those who viewed the False Post believed Plaintiff to be unchaste
18 constituting defamation per se. A sample of comments directed at Plaintiff in the posted
19 comments section include: “Worthless piece of [expletive] crack whore [expletive],” 20 “[expletive]ing nasty [expletive] [expletive],” “This is disgusting and [expletive]ed up. I hope that 21 baby gets taken away and she gets thrown in jail. What a nasty, skank [expletive] whore.” The 22 image and commentary exposed Plaintiff to hatred, contempt, ridicule and disgrace.
23

24 Defendants published that Plaintiff had committed a crime by the acts depicted in the 25 image wrongfully attributed to Plaintiff. Defendants failed to determine the truth of the image’s
26 attribution to Plaintiff, despite the image having another individual’s Skype name at the top of the 27 image. Defendants publicly posted the False Post purportedly depicting and identifying Plaintiff
28

1 as the subject of the screen capture in question without first investigating the age or identity of the 2 subjects. Defendants also publicly published Plaintiff's private residential physical address.

3 Plaintiff was not the teenage mother depicted in the image and any attribution of the 4 image or act in the image to her is false and defamatory as it pertains to Plaintiff.

6 Procedural History:

7 On November 19, 2010 Backlund filed the present action in Los Angeles Superior Court.
8 The above small claims action was dismissed on December 23, 2010 without prejudice. On 9 January 27, 2011 Defendants moved to strike the third count of Backlund's complaint, public
10 disclosure of private facts, and that matter was heard on March 22, 2011. Defendant moved to 11 strike Plaintiff's complaint as a SLAPP on February 25, 2011. Defendant argued that the 12 publication of Plaintiff's name, residential address, and a map to her home (in connection with the 13 publication of the lewd photograph) was not a public disclosure of private facts. Defendants' anti-
14 SLAPP motion was denied.
15

16 As a result, on May 18, 2011, Stone filed a cross-complaint against Plaintiff for defamation
17 and intentional infliction of emotional distress. This action was dismissed with prejudice pursuant 18 to the Appellate Court opinion on September 4, 2012, attached hereto as Exhibit C. The Appellate
19 Court found that Stone is a limited public figure, and that given Stone's outrageous behavior
20 towards young women, Stone cannot complain when confronted by one of his victims. The 21 Appellate Court ordered the dismissal of Stone's cross-complaint and awarded attorney's fees and 22 costs to Plaintiff. The trial court granted Plaintiff's fee motion and awarded attorney fees and 23 costs $109,069.67.

25 LIABILITY

26 Defendants have defaulted on this case and are liable for the amounts set forth in the 27 properly served Statement of Damages and relief requested in the complaint. Plaintiff has dismissed all Doe Defendants concurrently with this trial brief. Both named Defendants have defaulted. Therefore, Defendants are jointly liable for the damages as stated in Plaintiff's Statement of Damages.
28

EVIDENCE SUPPORTING JUDGMENT

The following Declarations and other Documents which have been filed during the pendency of the complaint and cross complaint are true and correct copies and attached hereto for ease of reference:

EXHIBIT D: Declaration of F. Edie Mermelstein in Support of Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendants' Anti-SLAPP Motion.

EXHIBIT E: Declaration of Michael Palzes in Support of Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendants' Anti-SLAPP Motion.

EXHIBIT F: Declaration of Alyssa Backlund in Support of Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendants' Motion to Strike a Portion of Plaintiff's Complaint.

EXHIBIT G: Declaration of F. Edie Mermelstein in Support of Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendants' Motion to Strike a Portion of Plaintiff's Complaint.

EXHIBIT H: Request for Judicial Notice in Support of Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendants' Anti-SLAPP motion

EXHIBIT I: Declaration of Alyssa Backlund in Support of Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendants' Anti-SLAPP Motion

First Cause of Action- Defamation

Elements proven below are as follows: (1) intentional publication by defendant; (2) of statement of fact; (3) that is false; (4) defamatory; (5) unprivileged; and (6) has a tendency to injure or that causes special damages. E.g., Taus v. Loftus (2007) 40 Cal. 4th 683, 720; Smith v. Maldonado (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 637, 645. See also Cabesuela v. Browning-Ferris Industries of Cal., Inc. (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 101, 112 (defamation must have been communicated or published intentionally or negligently to another).

Defendants made one or more defamatory statements to persons other than Plaintiff,

1 including a defamatory statement stating that Plaintiff was “the-most-vile-camwhore-alive”
2 which Defendants intentionally published with a link to the False Post which Defendants also 3 intentionally published on Defendants’ Stickydrama.com. This link defaming Plaintiff was 4 viewed 613 times in 37 different countries, where Defendant posted links on Stone’s twitter
5 account to drive traffic to Defendants’ Stickydrama website. (See Exhibit D, paragraph 21,
6 Exhibit 17.)

8 People who viewed the False Post and the statement, “[Plaintiff is] ‘the-most-vile-9 camwhore-alive’” reasonably understood the statements to mean that Plaintiff was unchaste and 10 had committed crimes by masturbating on camera next to an infant as evidenced by numerous
11 viewers’ comments to the False Post. (See Exhibit D, Paragraph 12, Exhibit 7.) 12

13 Defendants failed to use reasonable care to determine the truth or falsity of the statements
14 and had a complete lack of due diligence prior to publicly posting the defamatory statement.
15 Defendants’ statements claiming Plaintiff to be “the-most-vile-camhore-alive” and images falsely
16 identifying Plaintiff as a teenage mother masturbating next to an infant on a web camera are 17 unprivileged and have no artistic or redeeming quality and therefore are per se defamatory.
18

19 The defamatory statements described above caused Plaintiff special damages where the 20 statements are defamatory per se, and have an indelible life on the internet causing Plaintiff
21 permanent damage to her name and reputation.

22 Punitive damages have been requested in Plaintiff’s complaint and are reasonable in this 23 case. Plaintiff properly served Defendants with Statement of Damages pursuant to statute seeking 24 $500,000.00 in punitive damages. On June 6, 2013, Plaintiff filed Statement of Damages with the 25 Los Angeles Superior Court, Stanley Mosk Courthouse. At that time, Defendant Christopher 26 Stone was not represented by an attorney and continues to use a P.O. Box address, Plaintiff could 27 not effectuate personal service as required by the California Code of Civil Procedure. Pursuant to 28

1 California Code of Civil Procedure §1011(b) where a party's residence is not known, service may
2 be made by delivering the notice or papers to the clerk of the court, for that party. On June 21,
3 2013, pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure §1011, Plaintiff employed a process server,
4 Michael Juarez, to effectuate statutory service of Plaintiff's Statement of Damages on Stone by 5 personally serving the Statement of Damages to Defendant Christopher Stone on Mary Fregoso, 6 Clerk of Department 51. Mary Fregoso is employed at the Stanley Mosk Courthouse in Los
7 Angeles, 111 North Hill Street, Los Angeles, CA 90012. On June 26, 2013, Defendant
8 Christopher Stone was also served with the Statement of Damages at his P.O. Box in Los Angeles
9 via the United States Postal Service according to ordinary business practices by Allyson Rudolph,
10 a law clerk at the Law Offices of F. Edie Mermelstein.
11

12 On June 6, 2013, Plaintiff filed a Statement of Damages with the Los Angeles Superior 13 Court, Stanley Mosk Courthouse. Defendant Elite Imaging Concepts was not represented by an 14 attorney at that time and provided this court and counsel with a P.O. Box address. Personal service
15 of the entity was attempted utilizing a New York private investigator to ELITE's New York State
16 listed address. (See Exhibit B - Affidavit of Non-Service showing due diligence.)
17

18 On June 26, 2013, Defendant Elite Imaging Concepts, LLC was served with the Statement
19 of Damages at the P.O. Box address in Los Angeles via the United States Postal Service according 20 to ordinary business practices by Allyson Rudolph, a law clerk. As referenced above, pursuant to 21 California Code of Civil Procedure §1011(b) where a party's residence is not known, service may 22 be made by delivering the notice or papers to the clerk of the court, for that party. On July 8, 2013
23 Allyson Rudolph personally served Mary Fregoso, the clerk of Department 51. (See Exhibit B)
24

25 Second Cause of Action- False Light

26 Elements proven below as follows: (1) false; (2) unprivileged; (3) publication by writing,
27 printing, or other fixed representation; (4) exposes a person to hatred, contempt, ridicule, or 28

1 obloquy, or which causes person to be shunned, or avoided, or which has a tendency to injure
2 person in occupation; and (5) malice if plaintiff is a public figure. Briscoe v. Reader's Digest
3 Association, Inc. (1971) 4 Cal.3d 529, 543, overruled on other grounds by Gates v. Discovery
4 Communications, Inc. (2004) 34 Cal.4th 679, 697; M.G. v. Time Warner (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th
5 623, 636. See also Fellows v. Nat'l Enquirer (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 234, 239 ("Although it is not
6 necessary that the plaintiff be defamed, publicity placing one in a highly offensive false light will
7 in most cases be defamatory as well.")

9 Defendants published one or more of false statements to persons other than Plaintiff
10 stating that Plaintiff was "the-most-vile-camwhore-alive" which Defendants published on the 11 internet in writing with a link to the False Post which Defendants also published by Defendants 12 on the website stickydrama.com which was viewed 613 times in 37 different countries. (See 13 Exhibit D, paragraph 21, Exhibit 17.)

14
15 The statements claiming Plaintiff to be "the-most-vile-camwhore-alive" and images
16 falsely identifying Plaintiff as a teenage mother masturbating next to an infant on a web camera
17 are unprivileged and have no artistic or redeeming quality. Defendants publicized information and 18 material that showed Plaintiff in a false light where Defendants falsely portrayed Plaintiff as an 19 individual who masturbated on the internet with an infant present. (See Exhibit D, Paragraph 12, 20 Exhibit 7.)

21
22 False light created by the publication is highly offensive to a reasonable person in 23 Plaintiff's position, as evidenced by the plethora of derogatory hate mail Plaintiff received for the 24 False Post Defendants made. Defendants knew the publication would create a false impression
25 about Plaintiff or acted with reckless disregard of the truth, or Defendants were negligent in 26 determining the truth of the information or whether a false impression would be created by its 27 publication.
28

Plaintiff is not a public figure. Plaintiff sustained lasting harm to her reputation, both online and in person, which affected Plaintiff's earnings and potential future occupational success. These false statements exposed Plaintiff to hatred, contempt, ridicule, and obloquy, and caused Plaintiff to be shunned, avoided, and which has a tendency to injure Plaintiff in her occupation.

Third Cause of Action- Public Disclosure of Private Facts

Elements proven below as follows: (1) public disclosure; (2) of a private fact; (3) which would be offensive and objectionable to a reasonable person; and (4) which is not of legitimate concern. Moreno v. Hanford Sentinel, Inc. (2009) 172 Cal. App.4th 1125, 1129-30; Taus v. Loftus (2007) 40 Cal.4th 683, 717; Morrow v. Los Angeles Unified School District (2007) 149 Cal.App. 4th 1424, 1440.

Defendants violated Plaintiff's right to privacy by publishing her previously private physical residential address on a public website after defaming Plaintiff and subjecting her to contempt and hatred based on Defendants' False Post. (See Exhibit E, Paragraph 3, Exhibit 1.)

Plaintiff's information was not publicly available on public websites, such as www.whitepages.com. (See Exhibit F, Paragraph 1, Exhibit 1.)

Defendants admitted they used a lengthy process to deduce Plaintiff's address based on listings of purported relatives as outlined in Defendants' Notice of Motion and Motion to Strike Portion of Plaintiff's Complaint which was filed with this court on January 27, 2011, on Page 5, Line 28 through Page 6, Line 13. Defendants argued that although Plaintiff's address was not publicly available, using deduction one may be able to ascertain Plaintiff's address. On March 22, 2011, this Court denied Defendants' request to take judicial notice of facts regarding Plaintiff's relatives in relation to Plaintiff's private address and denied Defendant's motion to strike this cause of action.

Defendants did in fact published Plaintiff's private residential address on the internet in

1 violation of www.whitepages.com's terms of use statement forbidding use of information to
2 "stalk, harass, or threaten any individual" after subjecting Plaintiff to ridicule, hate and contempt.
3 (See Exhibit G, Paragraph 4, Exhibit 2)

4 Given the amount of negative publicity Plaintiff received from the defamatory False Post
5 on Defendants' Stickydrama website, including numerous threats of violence, a reasonable person
6 in Plaintiff's position would consider the public disclosure of her physical residence directed at 7 Stickydrama followers to be highly offensive. Defendants acted in reckless disregard by posting
8 Plaintiff's private information on the internet, where the general public would be able to locate
9 Plaintiff's whereabouts and carry out threats.

11 There was no legitimate need to publicize Plaintiff's address. The right to privacy is 12 sanctioned by our society. Plaintiff did not have a residential address available to the public, prior 13 to Defendants disclosure of this information. Plaintiff's residential location was private. This 14 privacy was destroyed by Defendants.
15

16 Fourth Cause of Action- Abuse of Process

17 Elements proven below as follows: (1) ulterior purpose in commencing a process; and (2)
18 willful act in an unauthorized use of the process. Rusheen v. Cohen (2006) 37 Cal.4th 1048, 1057.

19 Defendant Christopher Stone, a law student at Southwestern Law School, entertained an 20 ulterior motive in using the small claims process, namely to use as the legal process as a vehicle to 21 obtain unrelated young women and girls' private information through issuing subpoenas using the 22 small claims case against Plaintiff. The ulterior motive in using the small claims process is 23 evidenced by Stone's acts to subpoenaed private information of young women and teenage girls
24 unrelated to the claims Stone had against Plaintiff. (See Exhibit H, Exhibit 1; Exhibit D, 25 Paragraph 7, Exhibit 3; Exhibit D, Paragraph 9-10)
26

27 Defendant Stone withdrew his Small Claims action after Plaintiff filed the civil suit in the present court. On the same day Defendants answered Plaintiff's complaint, Stone filed a cross-complaint alleging the same claim as he did in the small claims action. The cross-complaint contained the same claim against Plaintiff as the Small Claims court action and was dismissed with prejudice. The Appellate Court found that Stone "fails to carry his burden of showing probability that he will prevail on the merits of his claim." (See Exhibit C, Page 11) Therefore, the cross-complaint, which contained the identical defamation cause of action that the previously withdrawn small claims action, was frivolous. As such, using the frivolous small claims action filed against Plaintiff to obtain personal information of young women and girls is an abuse of process.
28

Fifth Cause of Action- Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress

Elements proven below as follows: (1) outrageous conduct by defendant; (2) intentional or reckless causing emotional distress; (3) severe emotional distress; and (4) causation. Huntington Life Sciences, Inc. v. Stop Huntington Animal Cruelty USA, Inc. (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 1228, 1259; Nally v. Grace Community Church (1988) 47 Cal.3d 278, 300. See also Kelly v. Gen. Tel. Co. (1982) 136 Cal. App.3d 278, 287 (deliberate slander was extreme and outrageous conduct.)

Defendants' conduct was outrageous where Defendants posted obscene, threatening and defamatory remarks about Plaintiff on their Stickydrama.com website and Twitter accounts. (See Exhibit D, Paragraph 12, Exhibit 7)

Defendants intended to cause Plaintiff emotional distress or Defendants acted with reckless disregard of the probability that Plaintiff would suffer emotional distress, knowing that Plaintiff was present when the conduct occurred. Defendants did not perform due diligence to address the age or identity of the female in the photo and in fact posted a screen cap of a sexually explicit act involving an infant and falsely attributed it to Plaintiff, which evidences Defendants complete disregard of the probability that Plaintiff would suffer emotional distress.

Plaintiff suffered severe emotional distress, where Plaintiff became hysterical after seeing the False Post, screamed, cried and left work early without pay directly after seeing the defamatory statement published by Defendants. Plaintiff also lost sleep, had an upset stomach, and has caused her extreme anxiety. (See Exhibit I, Paragraph 4)

Plaintiff continues to have anxiety over the incident and the permanent internet record the defamatory posting left behind. (See Exhibit I, Paragraph 4)

Sixth Cause of Action- Violation of Business and Professions Code §17200 et seq.

Elements proven below as follows: (1) a business practice; that is unfair, unlawful or fraudulent; and authorized remedy. Paulus v. Bob Lynch Ford, Inc. (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 659, 676. Defendants engaged in unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business practices or acts. Defendants recklessly acquired child-related obscenity and published same on Defendants' public website for the consumption of the general public, including minors, specifically for Defendants' financial gain. (See Exhibit D, Paragraph 11, Exhibit 6; Paragraph 18, Exhibit 14; Paragraph 19, Exhibit 15)

As evidenced by Twitter and social media postings attempting to drive traffic to Defendants' websites, Defendants' business practice is to use defamatory marketing to advertise Defendants' website. (See Exhibit D, Paragraph 14, Exhibit 9) Defendants' normal business practice is to use threats, defamatory statements, vulgar and obscene comments as entertainment directed at an audience primarily populated by young adults and minors. (See Exhibit D, Paragraph 8, Exhibit 4; Paragraph 12, Exhibit 7; Paragraph 13, Exhibit 8; Paragraph 14, Exhibit 9; Paragraph 15, Exhibit 10 & Exhibit 11)

As a result of this business practice, Plaintiff has lost money or property as evidenced by losing wages after being viciously defamed on Defendants' for-profit Stickydrama website on November 20, 2009. See Exhibit Paragraph I, 4; Declaration of Stacie Smith.)

Plaintiff's complaint seeks injunctive relief prohibiting Defendants from repeating statements judicially determined to be defamatory. Plaintiff brought this particular cause of action as a public service to protect the general public, in particular young women and girls from being victimized on the internet by Defendants and was successful in aiding in the take down of the Stickydrama.com website. Plaintiff's complaint seeks attorney fees and costs as permitted by law. As Plaintiff has contributed to the public benefit by courageously bringing this lawsuit, Plaintiff is requesting attorney fees in the amount of $125,528.13 and costs in the amount of $3,003.17.

REQUESTED JUDGMENT

As prayed for in the Complaint and Statement of Damages upon Stone and ELITE jointly, Plaintiff respectfully seeks the following judgment:

GENERAL DAMAGES:

- | | | |
|----|------------------------------------|--------------|
| a. | Pain, suffering, and inconvenience | $250,000.00 |
| b. | Emotional Distress | $250,000.00 |

SPECIAL DAMAGES:

- | | | |
|----|------------------|-----------|
| a. | Loss of Earnings | $ 320.00 |

PUNITIVE DAMAGES: $500,000.00

Defendants' conduct toward Plaintiff with the False Post and abuse of the legal system is nothing less than despicable. According to the opinion of the Second Appellate District Two, Division Two in ruling on the denial of the anti-SLAPP motion in Stone's cross-complaint, the Appellate Court opined, "Stone's Internet activities are abusive, unethical, demonstrate a manifest lack of maturity, discretion and good judgment." (See Exhibit C, Page 12-13 footnote 5)

Plaintiff submits the following information concerning the financial condition of Stone. Adams v. Murakami (1991) 54 Cal.3d 105, 123. In this case, Defendants have actively evaded service of a Judgment Debtor's exam which was noticed by Plaintiff after obtaining a judgment

1 from this Court against Stone for attorney fees and costs on appeal. ((See Exhibit C, Page 13.)
2 Stone would be the only concrete source of information regarding his financial condition available
3 to Plaintiff.

4 It appears from the fact that Stone not only uses multiple names, and entities but Stone has 5 also fraudulently changed the last four digits of his social security number when he applied to the 6 Law School Admissions Test. Stone utilizes both social security numbers as well as multiple 7 entities which are currently unknown to Plaintiff. It is apparent from this practice that Stone has is 8 engaging in various asset protection schemes.

10 Ever since Stone's former attorney withdrew from this case, Stone has failed to appear in 11 Court and by Stone's disobedience of a proper court order, Defendants have improperly deprived 12 Plaintiff of the opportunity to accurately assess Defendants net worth. Defendants may not now be 13 heard to complain about the absence of such evidence. Mike Davidov Co. v. Issod (2000) 78
14 Cal.App.4th 597, 609.

15
16 Plaintiff has obtained documents from the internet showing real estate sales information
17 from the MLS listings. Defendant Stone purchased 460 S. Spring Street, #1105, Los Angeles, 18 California 90013, a residential property, also known as Defendants' Stickyhouse ("the 19 Stickyhouse") for $542,000.00 in March 2009. (See Declaration of Mermelstein, Exhibit 1)

21 This court rendered a judgment for attorney fees and costs on appeal in the amount of 22 $109,069.67 on January 10, 2012. Before the judgment could be perfected and recorded, Stone 23 sold the Stickyhouse for $625,000.00 on or about February 15, 2013. (See Declaration of 24 Mermelstein, Exhibit 2.) According to Los Angeles County Recorder's office records, Stone
25 acquired the Stickyhouse and no mortgage or encumbrances were connected to the Stickyhouse at 26 the time of the sale. (See Declaration of Mermelstein, Exhibit 3.)

27 Additionally, it appears that Stone acts as a talent agent for at least one pornographic
28

actress/model, and has been involved in several new business ventures. (See Declaration of Mermelstein, Exhibit 4.) As evidenced by Stone's academic records, Stone is highly educated and has earning capacity. (See Declaration of Mermelstein, Exhibit 5.)

INJUNCTIVE RELIEF:

Plaintiff's complaint seeks injunctive relief prohibiting Defendants from repeating statements judicially determined to be defamatory. Plaintiff is requesting injunctive relief in this case to prohibit Defendants from posting defamatory statements for profit on commercially operated websites in which they own and/or operate.

DIVISION TWO

JOSEPH A. LANE Clerk
Deputy Clerk

An aspiring lawyer in his 30's named Christopher Stone operated a website for teenagers on which he posted lewd photographs and other scandalous and salacious material. Stone presented himself in the mainstream media as an expert on the topic of "sextortion," a form of blackmail characterized by threats to humiliate a person by posting nude photographs on the Internet. In February 2010, Stone tweeted a threat to "spam" a seminude photograph of a teenage girl; she was subsequently interviewed by an investigative reporter for an article about Stone's threat to publicly humiliate her. Stone has now sued the girl for defamation. Following de novo review, we direct the trial court to strike Stone's pleading as a Strategic Lawsuit Against Public Participation (SLAPP). (Code Civ. Proc., § 425.16.)¹

FACTS

Backlund's Complaint

Alyssa Backlund filed suit against Christopher Stone and Stone's website "StickyDrama.com" in November 2010. In November 2009, Stone posted a lewd image of a minor female, with commentary that the image "appears to depict Alyssa Marie Robertson masturbating next to an infant. Such an act, in addition to being morally repugnant, probably violates several statutes pertaining to exposing children to obscenity." Stone published plaintiff's personal contact information with the image, which was viewed by thousands of people. Viewers posted comments of outrage and disgust, referred to plaintiff as a "whore," and contacted plaintiff directly via the link provided by Stone. Plaintiff is not the person depicted in the lewd image.

Stone's publication of an image falsely purporting to depict her in a lewd act exposed plaintiff to hatred, contempt, ridicule and disgrace. Backlund asserts causes of action for defamation and false light. Stone admits that he posted an image of a masturbating girl on StickyDrama, with plaintiff's contact information.

¹ All undesignated statutory references in this opinion are to the Code of Civil Procedure.

In February 2010, Stone obtained a topless photograph of plaintiff and sent her a publicly viewable “tweet” stating, “Message him again, and your floppy titties are spammed all over the place. Last warning.”² Stone’s threat and the seminude photo of plaintiff were accessible to anyone on the Internet. Plaintiff did not consent to disclose the photo, and found the threat of public humiliation highly offensive. Plaintiff asserts a cause of action for public disclosure of private facts based on Stone’s threat to spam the compromising photo of her. Stone admits that he threatened to publicly expose the indecent photo of Backlund unless she stopped contacting his houseguest Tammen.

Backlund’s complaint asserts that Stone filed a small claims action for defamation against her, but never served it. Stone urged his website followers to contact a television company to ask that he appear on the Judge Judy show, so that Stone could participate in a segment involving his small claims case against Backlund. Backlund alleges that Stone filed the small claims action for the purpose of harassing her.

Stone moved to strike Backlund’s complaint as a SLAPP. He argued that his publication of Backlund’s name, residential address, and a map to her home (in connection with the publication of the lewd photograph) was not a public disclosure of private facts. At the same time, Stone conceded that a search of public records does not show plaintiff’s residential address. Stone believed the lewd photograph depicted Backlund, so he included plaintiff’s name and contact information in his posting. Stone subsequently realized that he was mistaken: the photograph actually depicts an underage girl in Ohio, not plaintiff. He removed plaintiff’s personal contact link from the photograph, and offered to post on StickyDrama the heading, “Alyssa Marie Buckland [sic] is Not the Most Vile Camwhore Alive.”

The trial court denied defendant’s motion to strike Backlund’s complaint. It found that Stone’s Internet posting of child pornography is not protected free speech: section 425.16 “does not apply to indisputably illegal communications that are inherently criminal.” Posting a link to plaintiff’s personal webpage with comments attributing the wrongful child obscenity to plaintiff also does not implicate the anti-SLAPP statute. Stone did not appeal from the trial court’s denial of his anti-SLAPP motion.

Stone’s Cross-Complaint

After defendant’s anti-SLAPP motion was denied, he filed a cross-complaint against Backlund for defamation and intentional infliction of emotional distress. Despite being a purveyor of child pornography (by posting on the Internet images of an underage girl masturbating next to an infant), Stone paints himself as a noble crusader who protects “naïve and unsuspecting [Internet] users [who] are easy prey to sex offenders.” Stone trumpets that he “gained a reputation among mainstream media,” leading to features about him in the New York Times, CNN, and Fox News about “sextortion”—the use of compromising nude photographs to blackmail the people in the photo.

Stone socializes with “Internet celebrities and online entertainers” who have “cult status” on StickyDrama and like-minded websites. Backlund was a fan of StickyDrama and wanted to join Stone’s “milieu of ‘stars.’” After Backlund sent repeated messages to one of Stone’s houseguests, Parker Tammen, Stone admits sending Backlund a threatening “tweet” in February 2010, “telling her that an indecent picture she sent to Mr. Tammen would be exposed if she contacted Mr. Tammen again.” Stone claims that his threat is not “sextortion” because he did not demand money, property, or additional nude photos from Backlund. At the time, Stone was 31 years old and Backlund was 19.

After Stone publicly threatened Backlund, she was interviewed by online journalist Adrian Chen for an article that appeared on Gawker.com in July 2010. The article initially stated that Stone committed “sextortion” by threatening to expose a seminude photo of Backlund taken when she was underage, but was corrected at Backlund’s request to show that the photo was taken the week of her 18th birthday. Stone’s threatening tweet to Backlund was shown in the Gawker article, which was entitled “StickyDrama’s Christopher Stone Is a ‘Sextortion’ Expert in More Ways Than One.” Chen quoted a Fox News report featuring Stone, which stated, “A new type of blackmail is trapping teenagers, especially those who have sent provocative pictures to friends. Hackers are stealing those photos and threatening their senders.” Chen noted that Stone appeared on television ostensibly to warn teens about the dangers of sextortion, but neglected to mention that he is an expert on the subject because sextortion is something that Stone engages in himself. Gawker quotes Backlund (identified as “Sarah”) expressing fear of Stone because of his threats to spam her topless image, saying, “He scares me shitless . . . he’ll take anything he can to smash you.”

Stone asserts a defamation per se claim against Backlund, alleging that her statements to Gawker journalist Chen are false, unprivileged, expose him to hatred, contempt and ridicule, and tend to injure his business. The statements are defamatory because they charge him with the immoral and criminal activity of exposing a topless photo of an underage girl on the Internet, and by regularly threatening to expose compromising pictures of young girls. Stone also seeks damages for emotional distress.

Backlund’s Anti-SLAPP Motion

Backlund filed a motion to strike Stone’s cross-complaint under the anti-SLAPP statute. Backlund argued that the article on Gawker.com concerns a public controversy. Stone holds himself out as an expert, appearing on camera as a commentator on sextortion for a nationally broadcast television program, thereby “inserting himself into the public eye.” After Stone’s television appearance, Backlund was contacted by investigative reporter Adrian Chen from Gawker.com, who wanted to question her about Stone’s cyber-threat. Backlund agreed to answer Chen’s questions if he protected her identity, because she feared further cyber-bullying by Stone. Backlund reasoned that Stone’s cross-complaint arises from Backlund’s exercise of her constitutional right of free speech in connection with an issue of public interest, and is protected by the anti-SLAPP statute. Backlund argued that Stone cannot prevail on the merits of his cross-complaint because the pseudonymous “Sarah” quoted in the Gawker.com article does not refer to Stone as a sextortionist, and the entire article is hearsay.

In opposition, Stone argued that Backlund’s statements to Adrian Chen did not concern “an issue of public interest.” Her comments only concerned the activities of Stone himself, which are not a matter of public interest. Even if Stone interjected himself into the controversy of sextortion by appearing as an expert on a television news show, Backlund's comments are still not protected because they do not describe activity by Stone that qualifies as sextortion.

Stone claimed he is likely to prevail on his claims because Backlund made statements about him that are false, injure his reputation, and caused him extreme emotional distress. Stone submitted copies of various articles, including an Associated Press item on a federal investigation that coined the term "sextortion," and an FBI webpage advising people how to avoid becoming victims of sextortion.

Stone's declaration was executed in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and is not made under penalty of perjury under the laws of the state of California. He admits to threatening to expose a photograph of Backlund's breasts, feeling that "the only way to stop Backlund from harassing Mr. Tammen would be to send her a strongly worded message. To that end, in February 2010, I sent a 'tweet' to Backlund telling her that a topless picture she sent to Mr. Tammen would be exposed if she contacted Mr. Tammen again." Stone believes that Backlund's statements to Chen were false because (1) the topless photograph was taken when Backlund was 18 years old; (2) Stone's tweet did not include a link to an image of Backlund; and (3) "I did not continue to threaten Backlund with posting the picture nor did I threaten others similarly. Additionally, I did not engage in 'sextortion' because I never demanded that Backlund send me additional topless photos or any money or property in exchange for refraining from posting her photograph." Stone's declaration and appellate brief are replete with irrelevant, offensive, unsupported hearsay statements about Backlund that we do not deign to repeat.

THE TRIAL COURT'S RULING

The trial court denied Backlund's motion to strike. "[T]he Court concludes that the gravamen of the Cross-Complaint is not the interviewer's own commentary subsequently combined with Plaintiff's statements, on a public-interest topic of 'sextortion,' but instead Cross-Defendant's own comments, regarding an individual experience, concerning alleged threats by Cross-Complainant. . . . The instant fact pattern, of blindly answering questions about one's individual experience, without any awareness of the author's intended topic of the publication, distinguishes it from others described in published opinions, where defendants themselves speak on issues of public interest. In other words, the focus of moving party's alleged statements was upon a private controversy, and the public-interest aspect, if any, was added surprisingly later, by the author, who is not being sued."

DISCUSSION

1. Appeal and Review

Appeal lies from the order denying Backlund's motion to strike under the anti-SLAPP statute. (§ 425.16, subd. (i).) The anti-SLAPP statute applies to cross-complaints, as well as to complaints. (§ 425.16, subd. (h); Jarrow Formulas, Inc. v. LaMarche (2003) 31 Cal.4th 728, 735, fn. 2.) The trial court's ruling is subject to de novo review. (Oasis West Realty, LLC v. Goldman (2011) 51 Cal.4th 811, 820; Soukup v. Law Offices of Herbert Hafif (2006) 39 Cal.4th 260, 269, fn. 3.)

2. Overview of the Anti-SLAPP Statute

The anti-SLAPP statute allows the courts to expeditiously dismiss "'a meritless suit filed primarily to chill the defendant's exercise of First Amendment rights.'" (Paulus v. Bob Lynch Ford, Inc. (2006) 139 Cal.App.4th 659, 670; § 425.16, subd. (a); Simpson Strong-Tie, Co., Inc. v. Gore (2010) 49 Cal.4th 12, 21.) There are two components to a motion to strike brought under section 425.16. First, the defendant must show that the claim arises from her exercise of the right to free speech. (Equilon Enterprises v. Consumer Cause, Inc. (2002) 29 Cal.4th 53, 67.) Second, if the lawsuit affects constitutional rights, the court determines if there is a reasonable probability that the plaintiff will prevail on the merits of his claims. (§ 425.16, subd. (b)(1); City of Cotati v. Cashman (2002) 29 Cal.4th 69, 76; Zamos v. Stroud (2004) 32 Cal.4th 958, 965.) To protect First Amendment rights, the anti-SLAPP statute must "be construed broadly." (§ 425.16, subd. (a); Jarrow Formulas, Inc. v. LaMarche, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 735.)

3. Application of the Anti-SLAPP Statute

a. Threshold Showing That the Lawsuit Arises from Protected Activity

Backlund relies on two of the four categories covered by the anti-SLAPP statute. She claims that her interview with The Gawker's journalist was a "written or oral statement or writing made in a place open to the public or a public forum in connection with an issue of public interest," or was "any other conduct in furtherance of the exercise of the constitutional right of petition or the constitutional right of free speech in connection with a public issue or an issue of public interest." (§ 425.16, subd. (e)(3)-(4).)

An issue of public interest is "any issue in which the public is interested. In other words, the issue need not be 'significant' to be protected by the anti-SLAPP statute." (Nygaard, Inc. v. Uusi-Kerttula (2008) 159 Cal.App.4th 1027, 1042.) We have no difficulty concluding that the topics of cyber-bullying and "sextortion" are matters of public interest. Stone himself provides the proof in his moving papers: he attaches documents showing that the danger to children posed by sextortion has been a topic of widespread media coverage and has resulted in federal investigations and prosecutions. The FBI addresses the topic on its webpage, to alert people how to avoid becoming victims of sextortion. Stone was interviewed on a television program regarding sextortion. If a newsletter sent to a handful of homeowners in a residential community qualifies as constitutionally protected commentary on a matter of public interest (Damon v. Ocean Hills Journalism Club (2000) 85 Cal.App.4th 468), then a topic like sextortion that commands the attention of a nationwide audience on Fox News and CNN—as well as the attention of the FBI—certainly qualifies as a matter of public interest.

An interactive Internet site or news group is a "public forum" within the meaning of the anti-SLAPP statute, and postings on an Internet news site come within the ambit of the statute's protection. (Barrett v. Rosenthal (2006) 40 Cal.4th 33, 41, fn. 4; Summit Bank v. Rogers (2012) 206 Cal.App.4th 669, 693; D.C. v. R.R. (2010) 182 Cal.App.4th 1190, 1226 [websites accessible to the public are public forums]; Ampex Corp. v. Cargle (2005) 128 Cal.App.4th 1569, 1576.) Stone states in his pleading that the articles about him in Gawker were "viewed by thousands of people." Gawker.com qualifies as a readily accessible Internet news site and is therefore a public forum within the meaning of the anti-SLAPP statute.

The article on Gawker takes aim at Stone's credibility as a television news commentator on sextortion. The article includes the tweet from Stone to Backlund, threatening to spam "your floppy titties . . . all over the place." Stone admits making this threat. The article begins by saying that five months after Stone made the threat, "he appeared in a news report calmly warning teens about the dangers of 'sextortion.'" Gawker takes Fox News to task for featuring Stone, whose expertise in sextortion "comes from his own attempts at bullying a teenaged girl into silence by threatening to release topless photos of her."³

Backlund's comments printed on Gawker.com are afforded protection by the anti-SLAPP statute. When Stone chose to be featured in the print and television media as an expert on the topic of cyber-harassment, he "voluntarily subjected [himself] to inevitable scrutiny and potential ridicule by the public and the media." (Seeling v. Infinity Broadcasting Corp. (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 798, 807-808.) Because Stone markets his expertise on sextortion, Backlund was within her rights to share Stone's threatening tweet, and to comment about her fear of Stone, who possesses nude photos of her "and if I talk to anyone about it or stick my nose into anything then he'll release them." The Gawker article contributes to the ongoing public discussion about sextortion, and about Stone's role as a media commentator in that debate. As such, Backlund's statements were not private at all: they were a public comment about a publicly disseminated threat against her made by public figure Stone. Publicity about Stone's threats and Backlund's resulting fear of Stone provide a cautionary lesson to the youthful readers of Gawker, who might read Chen's article and decide not to upload nude images of themselves, lest the images fall into the wrong hands and pose the risk of public humiliation in front of countless people. The published article about Backlund's chilling personal experience with Christopher Stone addresses a matter of grave public concern.⁴

b. Probability of Stone's Prevailing on the Merits

The trial court did not reach the second prong of the anti-SLAPP analysis, having erroneously concluded that this involved a "private" matter. We review the case de novo, so we discuss the second prong. Once the first prong of an anti-SLAPP motion is satisfied, the burden shifts to the party asserting the cause of action to establish a probability of prevailing. (HMS Capital, Inc. v. Lawyers Title Co. (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 204, 213.) If the claim stated in the pleading is supported by sufficient prima facie evidence, it is not subject to being stricken as a SLAPP. (Navellier v. Sletten (2002) 29 Cal.4th 82, 93; Jarrow Formulas, Inc. v. LaMarche, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 738; Major v. Silna (2005) 134 Cal.App.4th 1485, 1498.)

Stone is a limited public figure. A limited public figure "is an individual who voluntarily injects him or herself or is drawn into a specific public controversy, thereby becoming a public figure on a limited range of issues" regarding the controversy giving rise to the alleged defamation. (Ampex Corp. v. Cargle, supra, 128 Cal.App.4th at p. 1577; Gertz v. Robert Welch, Inc. (1974) 418 U.S. 323, 351.) It is sufficient that the person "attempts to thrust him or herself into the public eye." (Gilbert v. Sykes (2007) 147 Cal.App.4th 13, 24.) Stone voluntarily thrust himself into a public controversy concerning the publication of lewd or compromising photographs of teenagers on the Internet. In November 2009, by his own admission, Stone published an image of an underage masturbating girl on StickyDrama, along with plaintiff's contact information, on a notorious website he operated. In February 2010, Stone admittedly tweeted a threat to spam a topless photograph of plaintiff. In July 2010, Stone appeared on Fox News to discuss "the scary new phenomenon" of publishing compromising photographs of teenagers. He has also been featured in the New York Times and on CNN.

Stone became a limited public figure by operating a publicly accessible website that published lewd photos of minors, and by seeking the public eye when he appeared on television and in print media to discuss the topic of sextortion. "Once he places himself in the spotlight on a topic of public interest, his private words and conduct relating to that topic become fair game." (Gilbert v. Sykes, supra, 147 Cal.App.4th at p. 25 [defendant thrust himself into the public debate on the merits of plastic surgery by appearing on a television show].) Public figures must prove by clear and convincing evidence that an alleged defamatory statement was made with actual malice. (New York Times Co. v. Sullivan (1964) 376 U.S. 254, 279-280.)

Stone fails to carry his burden of showing a probability that he will prevail on the merits of his claim. At the outset, we observe that Stone forfeited or conceded the second prong because he "offered no evidence in the trial court and makes no argument on appeal to establish that he is likely to succeed on the merits of his claim." (Neville v. Chudacoff (2008) 160 Cal.App.4th 1255, 1263, fn. 7.)

Stone's declaration in support of his anti-SLAPP motion is inadmissible and must be disregarded. A declaration subscribed in California must certify that it is "true under penalty of perjury," and, if signed outside of California, it must state that the declaration "is so certified or declared under the laws of the State of California." (§ 2015.5.) Out-of-state declarations that offend section 2015.5 "are not deemed sufficiently reliable for purposes of that statute, unless they follow its literal terms." (Kulshrestha v. First Union Commercial Corp. (2004) 33 Cal.4th 601, 611.) Any declaration that materially deviates from the statute "cannot be used as evidence." (Id. at p. 618.)

Stone's declaration does not mention the penalty of perjury or the State of California. (§ 2015.5.) Rather, it reads, "Executed this 30th day of June 2011 in Buenos Aires, Argentina.” The declaration is wholly inadmissible in this proceeding to show malice or anything else.

There is no proof that any of Backlund’s statements during her interview were made with actual malice. Stone offers only the inadmissible allegations of his unverified cross-complaint, along with his equally inadmissible declaration. Neither of those documents provide any proof of malice, let alone clear and convincing proof. Stone’s claims for emotional distress and injunctive relief fall along with his defamation claim, because Backlund was exercising her right to free speech. (See Molko v. Holy Spirit Assn. (1988) 46 Cal.3d 1092, 1120 [threats of divine retribution from church members was protected religious speech and could not form the basis of a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress]; Brunette v. Humane Society of Ventura County (2002) 40 Fed.Appx. 594, 598 [while emotional distress may be considered an element of damage in a properly stated defamation action, it cannot form the basis of an independent claim on the same facts].)

We note that this was the third article about Stone that appeared on Gawker.com: the first two were “StickyDrama: The Teen Gossip Site Run by a 31-Year-old Pornographer” and “StickyDrama’s Owner Recorded a Live-Streamed Rape and Blogged About It—But Didn’t Report It.” Despite repeated features damning his reputation, Stone did not sue Gawker.com or Adrien Chen for defamation. Instead, he focused on a teenager to whom he admittedly sent a threatening message, when she expressed her concerns and fears to the public about that threat. This follows Stone’s admitted publication of a lewd photograph of an underage girl, whom he falsely identified as plaintiff. Given Stone’s scurrilous and outrageous behavior toward young women, he cannot be heard to complain when confronted by one of his victims.⁵

⁵ Stone attends Southwestern Law School. An applicant to the California Bar has the burden of establishing “good moral character,” which includes “qualities of honesty, fairness, candor, trustworthiness, observance of fiduciary responsibility, respect for and obedience to the law, and respect for the rights of others and the judicial process.” (State Bar Rules, rule 4.40.) Stone’s Internet activities are abusive, unethical, demonstrate a

4. Attorney Fees

Backlund is entitled by statute to recover attorney fees and costs she incurred in the trial court and on appeal, as the prevailing party on her motion. The amount of the fees is to be determined by the trial court upon Backlund's motion. (§ 425.16, subd. (c)(1); City of Alhambra v. D'Ausilio (2011) 193 Cal.App.4th 1301, 1310.)

DISPOSITION

The judgment is reversed. Backlund is entitled to recover her attorney fees and costs on appeal. The case is remanded with directions to the trial court to enter an order (1) dismissing Stone's cross-complaint and (2) awarding attorney fees and costs to Backlund incurred in both the trial court proceedings and on appeal.

PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO
DEFENDANTS' ANTI-SLAPP MOTION

*[Filed concurrently with Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendants' ANTI-SLAPP Motion,
Declaration of Mike Palzes, and Declaration of Alyssa Backlund]*

Hearing Date: April 4, 2011
Time: 9:00 AM
Department: 51

Complaint Filed: November 19, 2010
Trial Date: None Set
Judge: Hon. Abraham Khan

I, F. Edie Mermelstein, do hereby declare and state as follows:

1. I am a solo practitioner at the Law Offices of F. Edie Mermelstein and am licensed to practice before all courts in the State of California. I represent Alyssa Backlund in the instant case.

1 I have personal knowledge of all of the facts stated herein, and if called to testify as a witness, I
2 could and would competently testify to them.

3 2. This declaration is submitted in support of Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendant's Anti-
4 SLAPP Motion.

5 3. On or about July 29, 2010, I was retained by Alyssa Marie Backlund to perform legal
6 services regarding threats she was receiving from Christopher Stone. I obtained a cell phone
7 number, for Christopher Stone of 213-221-9328. At or around 7:00 P.M. on July 29, 2010 after 8 receiving a distressed call from my client and my client's father regarding a threatening post to my
9 client from Stone revealing an aerial picture of my client's home, I placed a call to the cell phone
10 number I obtained. I informed Stone that I represented Alyssa Backlund and that he is not to contact
11 her directly for any reason. I also demanded immediate removal of my client's personal information,
12 which Stone publicly posted. I also inquired on whether he was represented by counsel and asked
13 that he or his attorney contact my office immediately. I never heard back from Stone or any one
14 representing Stone as a result of that call. However, within 30 minutes of leaving the message,
15 Stone's post with my client's address and a threat to humiliate her was taken down.

16 4. On or about August 23, 2010, my client informed me that she had received a threatening
17 letter from Stone asking her to contact Adrian Chen at Gawker to have him take down his article,
18 which accurately reports on the threat Stone made to my client on February 7, 2010. My client
19 expressed to me that she believes she only made truthful statements in her interview with Adrian
20 Chen and expressed fear for her safety and her reputation based on Stone's continuing threats to her.
21 I reviewed documents of screen captures and I also believed Stone was a dangerous and malicious 22 person that was out to ruin my young client's reputation.

23 5. On August 26, 2010, I drafted and sent a certified letter to Christopher Stone's address. The 24 US Postal Service attempted to deliver, but the certified letter was unclaimed and returned unopened
25 to my offices on or about September 18, 2010. A true and correct copy of the certified letter that I
26 sent to Stone and a copy of the returned envelope is attached hereto as Exhibit 1.

27 6. On September 11, 2010, I performed a public Google search of the search term
28

1 “stickydrama.” Google results included live updates from the twitter feeds containing the search
2 term “Stickydrama.” There was an update on the live feed from the Stickydrama twitter account
3 with a twitpic link that lead to a letter from Judge Judy and a statement from Defendants stating, “It
4 is against Alyssa “Backlund” aka @stawwkalyssa ... Everyone contact CBS & tell them how great
5 this would be.” I did not need any type of account to access this posting as it was readily viewable
6 by anyone with Internet access. I took a screen capture of the twitpic for our records. A true and 7 correct copy is attached hereto as Exhibit 2.

8 7. Attached as Exhibit 3 is a true and correct copy of the small claims Claim and Order to Go
9 to Small Claims Court, case number LAM 10M08579, entitled STONE, CHRISTO VS
10 BACKLUND, ALYS.

11 8. On October 25, 2010, I searched the internet site Urban Data for information on 12 Stickydrama’s usage and traffic information. The search produced 3 pages, which I saved and 13 printed. A true and correct copy of the Stickydrama.com UrbanData is attached hereto as Exhibit 4.

14 9. On or about November 15, 2010, I received a call from Gina Holland, the mother of Jessica 15 Mack, another target of Stone’s hate. Holland informed me that her daughter had received a 16 subpoena for all of her personal twitter and call information and that the subpoena stated it was for 17 the Stone v. Backlund case. She said she was moving to quash the subpoena. She expressed 18 concern over her child’s reputation and safety.

19 10. Stone had also sent a subpoena purporting to relate to the Stone v. Backlund defamation
20 matter to obtain account information for Twitter user @mmmkikikannibal including: devices, IP
21 audit and basic subscriber information. This twitter account belonged to a teenage girl who has also 22 been harassed by Stone. Attached hereto as Exhibit 5 is a true and correct copy of the subpoena
23 seeking information completely unrelated to any claims Stone may have had against my client.

24 11. On or about November 16, 2010, I researched the website Formspring and read through 25 questions answered by Stickydrama (aka Christopher Stone) on the site. Attached hereto as Exhibit
26 6 is a true and correct copy of a screen capture I saved where Stone answered affirmatively to the 27 question, “[d]o u get money from Stickydrama?”
28

12. On or about December 9, 2010, I researched the Internet to find cached images of the Stickydrama website from November 20, 2009. I obtained Google's cached image and saved the file. Attached hereto as Exhibit 7 is a true and correct copy of the cached images of the website for November 20, 2009.

13. On or about March 2, 2011, I logged on to twitter and screen captured 99 pages of Stickydrama tweets. I noticed from that on July 30, 2010, Stickydrama deleted approximately six months of messages including the messages at issue in this case. Stone also posted the following message on July 30, 2010, "I can see the headlines now:31-Year-Old Owner of StickyDrama Christopher Stone DELETES TWEETS!!!" Attached hereto as Exhibit 8, is a true and correct copy of page 32 of the 99-page screen capture I saved.

14. On or about March 2, 2011, I logged on to twitter and screen captured 99 pages of Stickydrama tweets. I searched the postings by date and found that Stone posted the following defamatory statement regarding my client on November 20, 2009, "@stawkkalyssa aka Alyssa Marie Robertson, Most Vile Alive, Faps with Infant <http://bit.ly/IIPsx>," in addition to other disgusting and derogatory comments Stone directed to my client's then boyfriend. Attached hereto as Exhibit 9, is a true and correct copy of page 70 of the 99-page screen capture I saved.

15. On or about March 2, 2011, I logged on to twitter and screen captured 99 pages of Stickydrama tweets. I searched the postings with a search term @stawkkalyssa and found a disgusting comment directed at my client's then-boyfriend stating, @NICHOLASinHD btw good news, your Alyssa turned out not to be the one who fingered her pussy with her kid." Stone posted that comment on November 27, 2009. Attached hereto as Exhibit 10, is a true and correct copy of page 54 of the 99-page screen capture I saved.

15. On or about March 19, 2011, I was reading Defendants' reply brief, declarations and exhibits in support of Defendants' motion to strike a portion of Plaintiff's complaint and noticed that in Exhibit A attached to Erik Syverson's declaration, the third search result for Alyssa Marie Backlund took me to a myspace.com page where Stone reproduced a stram from his now deleted Stickydrama twitter feed. I loaded the entire file and saved the 25 pages it produced. Attached hereto as Exhibit 11, is a true and correct copy of the 25 pages I screen capture and saved.

16. On or about March 19, 2011, I searched the internet for the documents listed in the subpoena attempting to get a Florida teens personal information under the guise of the small claims action Stone filed against my client. One of the documents referenced in the above-referenced subpoena is a Gawker.com article entitled "StickyDrama:The Teen Gossip Blog Run By a 31-Year-Old Pornographer" The article notes that Stone runs a website "whose favorite subject is a 16-year-old E-celeb named Kiki Kannibal." Attached hereto as Exhibit 12, is a true and correct copy of the screen capture I saved from the link that I followed.

17. On or about March 20, 2011, I searched the internet for the documents listed in the subpoena attempting to get a Florida teens personal information under the guise of the small claims action Stone filed against my client. One of the documents referenced in the above-referenced subpoena is a twitter post from Adrian Chen to @mmmkikikannibal. Attached hereto as Exhibit 13, is a true and correct copy of the screen capture I saved of the search result.

18. On or about March 19, 2011, I logged on to twitter and screen captured 70 pages of Stickydrama tweets. I read through the postings and found evidence of Stone conducting business for his then profitable website. Stone tweeted to @MilesDevin on November 24, 3009, "[w]hose cock do I have to suck to get @JakeWolfCrunk's bootyhole pics?" He also tweeted to @itsJamesStrife on November 24, 2009, "$100 for a pic or video of @JakeWolfCrunk kissing (with tongue) another male. $200 for fucking (showing penetration)." Attached hereto as Exhibit 14, is a true and correct copy of of page 66 of the 70-page screen capture I saved.

19. On March 19, 2011, I was searching the internet to discern what image was linked to twitpic.com/27wuce. This twitpic address was linked to numerous threats against my client by Stone. After reviewing the document, I found that the twitpic relates to a comment in a Gawker article that presumably Stone is extremely upset about. The image shows a box around "police served him with a warrant" and the statement below the image states, "@AdrianChen completely false. Produce the warrant you claim I was served, if you can." My client has nothing to do with the John Hock story where Stone captured to video a live stream of a rape in progress and posted it to

1 his website for financial gain. Attached hereto as Exhibit 15, is a true and correct copy of the image
2 result I found and screen captured and saved.

3 20. On or about March 19, 2011, I was curious to understand the shortened URL Stickydrama
4 used in its tweets and posts promoting the Stickydrama website. I noticed the shortened URL had
5 "bit.ly" in its address. I went to the bit.ly website and found that tracking statistics are publicly
6 available by placing a "+" at the end of the shortened URL. Attached hereto as Exhibit 16, is a true
7 and correct copy of a screen capture I saved of the About bit.ly website.

8 21 On or about March 19, 2011, I performed a tracking analysis using the bit.ly "+" sign at the 9 end of the URL Defendants used to promote traffic to the Stickydrama site using the defamatory
10 statement, ""@stawkkalyssa aka Alyssa Marie Robertson, Most Vile Alive, Faps with Infant
11 <http://bit.ly/IIPsx>" The tracking results produced the full URL which tracked to 12 www.stickydrama.com and showed that the shortened URL was clicked by 613 persons in 37
13 countries. Attached hereto as Exhibit 17, is a true and correct copy of the bit.ly statistics that I
14 searched, screen captured and saved.

15
16 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the state of California that the foregoing is true
17 and correct.

RE: August 18, 2010 Letter to Alyssa Backlund

Dear Mr. Stone:

As you should already be aware, I represent Alyssa Backlund. I left you a phone number several weeks ago on your cell phone voicemail informing you that I represent Ms. Backlund. In that voicemail message, that I assume you received because the posting of Ms. Backlund's address (a veiled threat of litigation) was removed shortly thereafter, I asked you to have your legal representation contact me immediately regarding your posting and threats to Ms. Backlund. I received no response from you. As Ms. Backlund's legal representation, please understand, you are not to contact my client directly. Please direct all future correspondences to my attention.

Please be advised, Ms. Backlund is not responsible for anything posted on Gawker, and has never publicly come forward as a source, acknowledged that she was a source, or been sourced to anything on Gawker. Any dispute you have with Adrian Chen should be directed to Adrian Chen directly. As a result of your letter, my office did contact Adrian Chen to make him aware of your baseless demand. However, my client will take no additional action on your behalf.

Your false and derogatory postings regarding my client, blatant threats of future harassment, invasion of privacy and offensive conduct will not be tolerated. Your reputation is marred as a result of your reprehensible online conduct, which is primarily targeted at young girls, including my client. Further, my client is not responsible for any damage to you or your repugnant reputation.

Just to be clear, Ms. Backlund is represented by counsel and any and all communications are to be directed to my attention.

Sincerely,

F. Edie Mermelstein, Esq.

Dear Christopher,

I am a producer for the nationally syndicated, top rated court television program "Judge Judy." On "Judge Judy," small claims cases from all over the nation are arbitrated, and the decisions rendered are final and legally binding. Our field researchers have selected and brought to my attention the small claims case that you have filed in the Los Angeles small claims court against Alyssa Backlund.

The arbitrator on "Judge Judy" is Judith Sheindlin, retired Supervising Judge of the New York City Family Court, where she served for 15 years. She is a renowned jurist and author of two books. Her distinguished career has been profiled on a number of television programs, including "60 minutes."

As you probably know, if you win your case in the small claims court, the court cannot guarantee that you will collect your money in a timely fashion, if ever. If, however, you choose to arbitrate your case on "Judge Judy" and win, we guarantee that you will receive the money awarded to you by the arbitrator within thirty days. In addition, if you choose to arbitrate your case on "Judge Judy," we will guarantee you an appearance fee for appearing on the program, and we will pay the travel expenses for you and any necessary witnesses to travel to Los Angeles.

Please call me at (323) 860-0210 or (800) 888-7949 ext. 0210, at your earliest convenience if you are interested in arbitrating your case on "Judge Judy." I look forward to hearing from you.

Requests for Accommodations

Assistive listening systems, computer-assisted, real-time captioning, or sign language interpreter services are available if you ask least 5 days before the trial. Contact the clerk's office for Form MC-410, Request for Accommodations by Persons With Disabilities and Order. (Civil Code, 54.8.)

“Small claims court” is a special court where claims for $5,000 or less are decided. A “natural person” (not a business or public entity) may claim up to $7,500, including a sole proprietor. The process is quick and cheap. The rules are simple and informal.

You are the Defendant—the person being sued. The person who is suing you is the Plaintiff.

Do I need a lawyer?

You may talk to a lawyer before or after the case. But you may not have a lawyer represent you in court (unless this is an appeal from a small claims case).

How do I get ready for court?

You don’t have to file any papers before your trial, unless you think this is the wrong court for your case. But bring to your trial any witnesses, receipts, and evidence that supports your case. And read “Get Ready for Court” at: www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp/smallclaims/getready.htm

What if I need an accommodation?

If you have a disability or are hearing impaired, fill out Form MC-410, Request for Accommodations. Give the form to your court clerk or the ADA/Access Coordinator.

What if I don’t speak English well?

Bring an adult who is not a witness to interpret for you, or ask the court clerk for an interpreter at least five days before your court date. A court-provided interpreter may not be available or there may be a fee for using a court interpreter unless you qualify for a fee waiver. You may ask the court for a list of interpreters and also the Application for Waiver of Court Fees and Costs (form FW-001).

Where can I get the court forms I need?

Go to any courthouse or your county law library, or print forms at: www.courtinfo.ca.gov/forms

What happens at the trial?

The judge will listen to both sides. The judge may make a decision at your trial or mail the decision to you later.

What if I lose the case?

If you lose, you can appeal. You’ll have to pay a fee. (Plaintiffs cannot appeal their own claims.)

- If you were at the trial, file Form SC-140, Notice of Appeal. You must file within 30 days after the judge’s decision.
- If you were not at the trial, fill out and file Form SC-135, Notice of Motion to Vacate Judgment and Declaration, to ask the judge to cancel the judgment (decision). If the judge does not give you a new trial, you have 10 days to appeal the decision. File Form SC-140.

For more information on appeals, see:

www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp/smallclaims/appeal.htm

Do I have options?

Yes. If you are being sued, you can:

- Settle your case before the trial. If you and the Plaintiff agree on how to settle the case, both of you must notify the court. Ask the Small Claims Advisor for help.
- Prove this is the wrong court. Send a letter to the court before your trial, explaining why you think this is the wrong court. Ask the court to dismiss the claim. You must serve (give) a copy of your letter (by mail or in person) to all parties. (Your letter to the court must say you have done this.)
- Go to the trial and try to win your case. Bring witnesses, receipts, and any evidence you need to prove your case. To make sure the witnesses go to the trial, fill out Form SC-107, and the clerk will subpoena (order) them to go.
- Sue the person who is suing you. File Form SC-120, Defendant’s Claim. There are strict filing deadlines you must follow.
- Agree with the Plaintiff’s claim and pay the money. Or, if you can’t pay the money now, go to your trial and say you want to make payments.
- Let the case “default.” If you don’t settle and do not go to the trial (default), the judge may give the Plaintiff what he or she is asking for plus court costs. If this happens, the Plaintiff can legally take your money, wages, and property to pay the judgment.

What if I need more time?

You can change the trial date if:

- You cannot go to court on the scheduled date (you will have to pay a fee to postpone the trial) or
- You did not get served (receive this order to go to court) at least 15 days before the trial (or 20 days if you live outside the county) or
- You need more time to get an interpreter. One postponement is allowed, and you will not have to pay a fee to delay the trial.

Ask the Small Claims Clerk about the rules and fees for postponing a trial. Or fill out Form SC-110 (or write a letter) and mail it to the court and to all other people listed on your court papers before the deadline. Enclose a check for your court fees, unless a fee waiver was granted.

CASE REFERENCE Cyber Stalking

CASE # 2008-019192

On June 14, 2008, Officer Prendergast responded to the Ocoee Police Department regarding a cyber stalking case. Upon arrival, Officer Prendergast met with the complainant, Cathy Ostrenga, who advised him that her daughter Kristen Ostrenga (A.K.A. Kikki Kannibal) was being cyber stalked. Cathy Ostrenga advised Officer Prendergast that this had been going on for over a year and a half and that it came in from various websites. Kirsten was not present and did not fill out a sworn written statement.

I met with Cathy Ostrenga and Kristen Ostrenga. I was advised that they had gone to a website and seen postings about Kristen, using her internet name Kikki Kannibal, on the various blogs. They provided me with some of the blogs and Kristen was asked to fill out a sworn written statement. I was advised that Kristen was a sort of "internet celebrity" through MySpace. Kristen had not advised me that any of this bothered her and did not seem to want to take the time to report it. It took a long time to get her to come downstairs at the home and did not have much to contribute to the investigation. Kristen never filled out the sworn written statement to give it to me. Nothing was provided to me that indicated that they were directly contacting Kristen either.

I received a phone call a few months later indicating there was a new posting on the "Sticky Drama" website. A picture of Kristen was posted on the website with her breasts exposed. The picture was taken by her and was not in the act of doing any type of sex act. Sticky Drama is a website that allows different people to do "blogs" and "postings" to the site.

At no time were any of these blogs sent to Kristen. They had to go on the website to locate them. The posting of her picture, with her breast being exposed, was not of her doing some sort of sex act and was a picture that she herself had taken. All the blogs that were sent in also were from different people and there was no proof that the postings were coming from one individual. At this time there is no evidence that a crime has occurred.

This case is closed as unfounded.

Teenage Mother Masturbates Next to Own Child

Early this morning StickyDrama was sent a image that appears to depict a teenage mother masturbating next to an infant. Such an act, in addition being morally repugnant, probably violates several statutes pertaining to exposing children to obscenity.

The teenager has been identified by matching furniture depicted in her Facebook photos with furniture depicted in the Skype call.

There has been speculation as to whether the female was forced or coerced into masturbating next to the infant—specifically that she was “blackmailed.” The portion of the Skype conversation in our possession does not indicate any blackmail, but does not necessarily disprove blackmail was involved either.

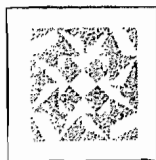

StickyDrama was not sent the screencap by the person who recorded the Skype session. We do not know whether a complete video recording even exists. We are attempting to locate the person who was Skyping with the female in order to determine the precise circumstances in which the incident occurred.

um, something is only scarining to a child when it's actually unpleasant, not when adults deem it inappropriate.

the kid seems happy, fine. I have no doubt that if her baby started crying, or hurt himself she would stop doing what she's doing to tend to her child.

there is a HUGE difference between seeing your mother naked when she is changing or in the shower (or whatever) and watching your mom MASTURBATE and TOUCHING HER TITS while she does it, REGARDLESS OF WHAT AGE YOU ARE.

you should NEVER INVOLVE CHILDREN in ANYTHING SEXUAL that you do EVER. the people saying that this is alright are fucked up sticky, please do something. if i knew what to do, i would for you.

assumptions on reality

JennJenn

<http://www.twitter.com/jennjennx3>

Actually, long term memory starts at 3yrs old.

Posted in many medical journals. Also I wish I could see this girl in person and give her what she deserves.

Anyone condoning these actions need to be nouted. Taking a shower with your mom as an intent is different then your mother laying on a bed masturbating and having you touch her.

Some people are traumatized just walking in on their parents having sex, let alone to be sexually exploited on camera.

Also sticky there's many laws broken here, child endangerment, sexual assault on a toddler. shed be listed as a sex offender get jail time and lose custody of her son. Plus I'm sure there's 4-5 other laws but they vary by state.

Demented bitch can rot in a hellhole.

It's not that fucking hard to get it on with your hand at night in bed when your child is sleeping so you don't have to worry about them. In the one person who said they rather flog their log with their child in their presence.

It's also not that hard to get a babysitter for the night and get yourself fucked. instead of fucking yourself in front of your child.

No normal mother lets their child feel their tits unless they are breast-feeding. And listen to JennJenn you fucking retard. there has been many stories where a child was 3-4 and remembered being sexually molested.

This bitch needs to get her child taken away because she is obviously an unfit parent.

Next time you dumb cunt. wait until you get in bed at night instead of being a fucking webcam whore and a unfit parent.

Alyssa, if I were you, I would delete every single internet account I have and never show your face on the internet ever again. There is no rationalization for what you've done.

After further investigation, I have come to a conclusion this is not her

First off if you search the name "Alyssa Marie Robinson" in Google. The person who posted the picture is not her.

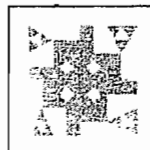

Proof here: <http://i45.tinypic.com/fmubfn.jpg> (<http://i45.tinypic.com/fmubfn.jpg>) or you can search it on ebay yourself.

Now if you search "zombieetacooo" in google a vampirefreaks profile comes up -> <http://vampirefreaks.com/gallery/zombieetacooo> (<http://vampirefreaks.com/gallery/zombieetacooo>)

Now if you look at those photos for example this one - <http://pics3.vampirefreaks.com/z/zom/zom/zombieetacooo/33644572.jpg> (<http://pics3.vampirefreaks.com/z/zom/zom/zombieetacooo/33644572.jpg>)

Compare the blanket and the curtain to the ones in the photo. The wall is also the same color and the pictures on the wall are the same.

This is not the Alyssa Marie you all know.

Grutter

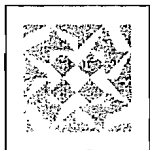

Teenage Mother Masturbates Next to ...

Sticky drama, please investigate more into the situation before you assume a situation as disgusting as this.

This concludes my investigation.

I'm sure it's already been reported. To the authorities and other people that will hopefully do something about it. Her behavior with this child is unforgivable. I think some of us couldn't sit around wondering who this child belongs to and if the mother even knows what happened. Hell, if it's her child then he needs to be removed from the home. This is abuse any way you put it. To those who say "It's not bad". You really need to be neutered. Period. You're a danger to children. Just like the piece of shit in the picture.

 cuz he was trying to play. everything is a game to kids that are this age. I wasn't planning on having him in my room at that fucking time would never do anything to fucking hurt him, and if you knew me you would know that. im a good fucking mom. And you guys know how

Wait... are these two really the same girl? The girl in the Facebook & child abuse picture has blue eyes and a lip piercing... while the one on the Stickam has dark eyes and a nose piercing... the Stickam/twitter girl also has a different facebook account to 'Alyssa Robertson' who actually abused the child.

What he blackmailed you through the computer?

WTF was he going to do? You're just looking for something to justify your shitty choices.

You molested your child.

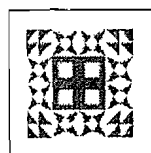

The legal definition for child molestation states:

"A person commits the offense of child molestation when he or she does any immoral or indecent act to or in the presence of or with any child under the age of 16 years with the intent to arouse or satisfy the sexual desires of either the child or the person."

Unfortunately darling, It's out of Sticky's hands already. It has already been reported and you should know that moving his little hand (according to you) changes nothing. He should not have been in the room. It makes no difference if you were blackmailed. I really don't care if your life was on the line. I'm a mother too and I honestly know that I would have done anything BUT masturbate in front of my child if I was being "blackmailed"

We're given the responsibility of our children and we're supposed to protect them from the world.

HAHAHAHAHAHA I really love how this girl is posting a million anon and fake named posts making it seem like she was "blackmailed" and "didn't do anything wrong" and claiming "libel". I mean it's completely obvious that it's her doing it and I REALLY hope the anon 5:30 did tell her parents. Lot's so hard when I read that. Bitch, you nasty.

P.s. I also love how she's saying that the baby won't remember anything... when you look at what's right up there you can tell that IT'S WIPONING. Put the baby in a crib and check on her, use the perianal check's which you can find on the internet, then why would you allow such a disgusting act? It's disgusting... just about the face of a girl being masturbated... the dildo pics. Way to be a disgusting fiasco at 17 with a one year old.

You essentially just told on yourself, sweetie. You're going to get in a lot more trouble about this than Sticky is. To be honest, just as brought a knife to a gun fight. Whether you end up in jail or losing your kid, you're going to live on lonely life, and I think that you deserve it completely. I mean, are you stupid or are you... wait, no, you're just plain stupid. There is no second option.

StickyDrama: The Teen Gossip Blog Run By a 31-Year-Old Pornographer

Adrian Chen — Before 11 year-old Jessi Slaughter was Internet famous for her Youtube videos, she was famous on Stickydrama.com, a gossip website for high-schoolers run by a 31-year-old man. It also has an amateur porn sister site. Delightful, right?

The Pornographer and His Teen Gossip Sites

StickyDrama and its sister porn site, Sticky-noodz, are two of the worst sites on the Internet, built on exploiting teens and tweens' insecurities and then publicly humiliating them. Stickydrama is a crowd-sourced gossip blog that chronicles the lives of "E-celebs." Sticky-noodz is similar, but focused on nude pictures. E-celebs are kind of like regular, "In Real Life" celebrities, except their fame exists solely on social-networking sites like Myspace, Twitter, and the live webcam community Stickam.com, from which StickyDrama gets its name.

LA resident Christopher Stone, age 31, founded StickyDrama in 2007 with a business partner. (He spun off sitcky-noodz in 2008.) It boasts 250,000 unique visitors and about 1 million pageviews per month, according to Stone's numbers. Before that, Stone worked in porn as a videographer at "several Adult production studios in New York City over the 9 years I lived there," he told us over email. (Here's a picture Stone took at this year's Exxxotica Expo.) Now he runs a website whose favorite subject is a 16-year-old E-celeb named Kiki Kannibal.

The majority of E-celebs on StickyDrama are "scene kids"—they sport spiky dyed hair, dark eyeshadow and gossip about each other via webcam while listening to terrible electropop/emo music. You've seen them at the mall. "E-celebs are usually not wealthy or beautiful, as we think of IRL celebrities," Stone told us. They are not the cool kids at school.

Many of the E-celebrities covered by StickyDrama are extremely young. "Most of my readers are in their late teens to late twenties," Stone says. But the majority of people covered by the site are between 11 to 20 years old—and mostly female. Eleven-year-old Jessi Slaughter became E-famous on StickyDrama when a user wrote a post calling her a "slut" and then dubiously linked her to the 25-year-old lead singer of an electropop band. Her personal information was circulated by users of 4chan, Tumblr and other sites, sparking online and real-life harassment.

This ended in the now-infamous breakdown of the "You Dun Goofed" viral video and a still-ongoing criminal investigation into nude pictures possibly passed around by her tormenters.

StickyDrama: The Teen Gossip Blog Run...

StickyDrama: Where Anyone can Make Fun of Fat Teenagers

Anyone can click the "Submit Drama" button on StickyDrama and start making fun of overweight teenagers on the site. The website has "several thousand" registered users, and Stone approves 5-10 posts a day. "So I don't have much to say about SIFS, other than the fact that they are pathetic," writes StickyDrama user by_monroeitch. (SIF stands for Secret Internet Fat Girls.) "But one fatty struck my attention when I saw various answers to some of her forinspring questions." (formspring.me, the social networking service we once called "the sociopathic crack cocaine of oversharing".) Kiki Kannibal's mom calls the site "one of the biggest bullies" on the Internet.

Naturally, Stone gets many complaints from parents, but will rarely take down a post, no matter how mean it is, or how young the subject. "I wouldn't remove an unflattering post of someone just because of the subject's age," he said. "If it's just juvenile name-calling, no: Sorry, that's life. But if it links to underage nudity or lawful but potentially dangerous contact information, yes."

Christopher Stone approves every post, sometimes posting users' stories to StickyDrama's Twitter and Tumblr accounts. Writing as "Sticky," he is often the loudest voice mocking high schoolers less than half his age. In one particularly vile post, Stone posts video recorded live from Stickam.com featuring a girl who looks no older than 15. (She claims on her stickam profile she's 17.) In the video, she has just finished masturbating on camera. After thanking her audience, she explains:

I need somebody telling me I'm sexy. Otherwise I don't come. Don't think I'm a slut or anything. I have needs. I'm new in town and I don't know anybody. I can't do it without somebody telling me.

Stone sneers that this girl "has a thing or two to learn about stickam."

One, as a rule you shouldn't masturbate for strangers on a webcam: They're recording you.

Two, if you stupidly do masturbate on webcam, don't confide to those strangers embarrassingly personal details about yourself, like the fact that you need someone to tell you how sexy you are in order to cum.

Sticky-noodz: Your Home for Jailbait Amateur Porn

But this isn't the sleaziest part of StickyDrama. StickyDrama is complemented by a crowd-sourced amateur porn site called Sticky-noodz, also owned by Stone. On the front page of Sticky-noodz is the following tagline:

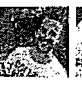

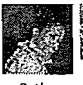

Where social networks get naked! Sticky noodz is a repository of nude photos of users from networking sites like Myspace, Stickam, Facebook, Twitter, YouTube and more.

StickyDrama: The Teen Gossip Blog Run...

Sticky-noodz features dozens of user-submitted pictures—mostly self-portraits that would be at home on a MySpace profile if their subjects weren't naked. Many of these feature E-celebs covered on Sticky Drama. Some of the pictures appear to be of questionable legality, and a number of Sticky Drama users complain about child porn being posted on Sticky-noodz. But since the site is user-generated, Stone claims he's not responsible.

"I don't verify anything submitted to noodz," he told us. "That burden falls on third-party users per the Communications Decency Act. However I very promptly remove most noodz content if I receive a complaint about it." Very decent of him.

(Sticky-Noodz.com is currently dormant in "Maintenance mode." Stone told us he suspended the site because "I'm in negotiations with a production studio here in Los Angeles who is aware of noodz, but I'm not sure whether they'll ultimately want it gone or not." Please, God, do not give this man a reality show.)

Sticky-noodz and Sticky Drama are intimately related. Sticky Drama users will stir up drama on that site, then one or another aggrieved party will get revenge by posting a nude shot of the other on Sticky-noodz. One sticky-noodz post declares: "@jabberjawjoseph has pissed to many people off to not have his nudes uploaded. He is a fag that thiks he's soooo cool... and is a MySpace fame monster." The post includes a headshot and a bunch of pictures of JabberJawJoseph's penis. This launches a whole new wave of drama and the cycle begins a new.

Moms, Don't Let Your Kids Grow Up to be E-Famous

Where do these nude pictures come from? Many seem to have been taken and sent as an act of flirtation, then posted on the site later once the budding online romance went sour (i.e. "sexting"). But they can come from anywhere. "When Stickydrama was just getting started, I think a lot [of Sticky Drama's nude pictures] came from screen caps of chat rooms, or private chats on Stickam," said Sam Proof, a popular Stickam user. But since Stickam began more tightly regulating its service, Proof says Sticky-Noodz "probably gets a lot from 'user generated content,' whether that's hackers breaking in to people's accounts, trolls baiting girls (or guys) for pictures, or just people who want to grab a minute of fame."

As disgusting and exploitative as Stickydrama and Sticky-noodz are, none of it could exist without the excessive fame-seeking behavior of these young E-celebs. They perform sexual acts on Stickam to boost their viewers, pimp jewelry lines and start social-networking drama with the not-so-hidden aim of ending up on Sticky Drama. (A few days before her video went viral, Jessi Slaughter tweeted "i love drama." And Christopher Stone, thirtysomething pornographer and connoisseur of underage teen gossip is there to help!

"I don't see anything contradictory or hypocritical in operating Sticky Drama and noodz," Stone said when asked if he thought there was anything unseemly about his Sticky empire. "I think you're confusing unlawful behavior with what you're trying to spin as immoral behavior."

Maybe bullying sexually confused teenagers while giving them the venues and motivation to slander each other is not technically illegal. But, goddamu, it's pretty much the worst thing you could do on the Internet that isn't.

3/19/2011

StickyDrama: The Teen Gossip Blog Run...

Did any of you who grew up with the net--maybe in middle school, in the early 2000s, or high school--have your parents checking your web usage so as to ensure you didn't do any of the things these kids did?

Policy org after policy org has written about this...lots of parents just don't do that (and I have to admit, I would have flipped out if my mother did that to me, but then again, I figured out not to give strangers my address, name, etc. at 11, whether they were face to face or online and I didn't send anyone naked photos.)

22 Jul 2010 12:27 PM

@maude_flanders: I've had the internet since the early '90s (my dad worked for a major telecom company). There wasn't much to worry about in the early days of BBS and primitive chat.

We got AOL in the mid-90s. I'd just moved to a new state at age 15 and had few friends, so I spent a lot of time in "teen chat" rooms. There was a guy I became friends with who said he wished we lived in the same city, I seemed so cool, would I please send him a picture? Since this was the Internet Bronze Age, he gave me his home address in California and (ugh) I sent him a snapshot. (Not porny. God I miss 35mm right now.)

Anyway, around this time my parents became suspicious of how much time I was spending online, and pulled the plug. I was pissed and sad, but soon moved on. Within a couple months I was embarrassed that I'd sent this guy my photo. And a little spooked. Nothing creepy ever came of it, though.

I'm glad my parents were watching me, but in those days I think it was much harder to do damage. Now -- well, now the Internet kinda makes me sick.

@maude_flanders: My parents never monitored my internet usage, though they definitely should have when I was a child. I remember throwing my address and phone number around a lot when I was under 10, but I stopped doing that when I got older. When I was 12 someone propositioned me in a chat room, but I had enough sense to gtfo of there and not reveal anything about myself other than my age and gender.

My children-and-the-internet policy:

Children under the age of 10 should be forbidden from using the internet without a parent over their shoulder because they are simply too young to fend for themselves on there.

Pre-teens should be allowed to use the internet with less supervision, but only in a heavily trafficked room (living room, family room, etc.). They should never, EVER be given a webcam or their own digital camera for obvious reasons. Parents should also require a current record of all of their child's social networking usernames and passwords, so that the accounts' activities can be monitored for anything inappropriate.

3/19/2011

Teens should be allowed to use the internet more freely, but only after being tutored in the dos and don'ts of porn sites, "free" offers, chat rooms, "private" sex tapes, etc.. They should also be told stories of teens who have had sexting go awry to scare them, be shown what 4chan is capable of doing to them if they incite the ire of the interwebz, and be educated in the art of cyberstalking so that they know what not to do. After they have been sufficiently trained in the dangers and hazards of the internet, they should be let loose to make their own mistakes and learn from them.

 Helen Lovejoy @jabberjabberwock

22 Jul 2010 12:47 PM

All good points (even though, as I've said, by 12 or 13, I would have been livid if I had my mother checking my email and what-not.) I'm in my 20s and I hate to admit it, but alot of this stuff is probably necessary.

Now, why the hell aren't they teaching internet safety in schools, along with (hopefully) courses on why cyber harassment is wrong, and possibly illegal, especially if it involves posting nude photos of your (minor) friends?

I think those "dos" and "don'ts" should probably be introduced immediately, even (or rather, especially) to preteens when they just start using the internet. Even if the parents are making efforts to monitor them closely, there's no reason they shouldn't internalize basic safety for themselves. Parents can't always be there.

@maude_flanders: We didn't have personal computers in our bedrooms. The family computer was located in the kitchen area, my mom and dad would have been VERY aware if I was recording myself and putting things on Youtube. (although it wasn't around when I was that age, AOL chat was the big thing) We were only allowed to use the computer for a certain amount time during the day, except if it was school work, then we had to find something else to do and if we said there was nothing to do mom always had weeds that needed to pulled or a toilet that needed to clean. You ALWAYS found something else to do.

 Helen Lovejoy @missheidilyn

Ah....that's an obvious one.

Maybe I'm biased in my favor--my mother still freaks out if she walks into the room and hears a raunchy joke from the TV if a show rated TV-14 is playing. I think privacy is important, but I agree...I doubt I'd let a kid have a computer in their room before 14, and before that, I'd make sure she sure knew some of these basics.

Who am I kidding...when she was at school I'd probably at least comb through his/her browser history, myself.

@maude_flanders: Do we have the same mother? Here is how I feel, what you write in your diary is private what you are putting online for billions of people to see, not private and as a parent I will check what you are using the computer for.

I also fear the day that I have teenagers.

I could never have kids because I think I'd be the same parent who would want to micro-chip my kid (for their safety, I swear!) AND let them smoke pot in the house (unless I thought the pot was making them tank in college or at work).

I don't see combing through browser history as terrible. I don't give a shit if my kid reads, say Gawker, or even raunchy sites like...uh...Rollingstone? (What's a "raunchy site" that gets it's raunch from lampooning celebrities or media, not kids....Funny or Die?)

If they were looking at porn...damn. I don't know what I'd do. There's a difference between your, perfectly normal horny 14 year old looking at porn and having it sent to them by an adult who is trying to get into contact with them. (Unless it was rape porn, or violent porn, and even if it was, how would you broach the subject without ruining your relationship with them?)

I would hate being a parent.

@maude_flanders: We had AOL when I was in high school. I did once give my phone number to a guy who IM'd me, but then when he actually called I was so terrified I just hung up on him. My parent didn't check up on my online activity, but then parents of 11-year olds today know more about what goes on online, I imagine, than they did in the 90's.

What's weird to me is this notion that it's the nerdy kids who are using these social networking sites (like StickyDrama or whatever)... I was a nerdy kid, and I was hanging out in nerdy chatrooms. Like X-Files chat and the atheist forum (I was a Catholic school kid, I needed an outlet). I would have felt like I wasn't cool enough to get involved in formspring or sticky-anything. It seems to me that kids who are bullied in real life have no real incentive to hang out in web forums where they'll be bullied more. It may have been mostly the nerdy kids who spent a lot of time in online forums 10 or 15 years ago, but I don't think that's true anymore.

@northeastthreat: That's how I felt, if anything. That's another matter though.....whether anyone your age (or, that you perceive to be your age) wants your nudes.

But I'm with you. At 12 I perceived the internet as a potentially dangerous place for various reasons.

@maude_flanders: Re: Internet Safety in Schools

It happens, but one must be very careful because you end up discussing sex/porn...and some parents/administrators go ballistic over that subject.

Geez, the shit I received for warning the kids and teachers about how their Google image searches for the American Indian tribe "Cheyenne" would be filled with a disproportionate number of strippers.

@northeastthreat: Well look at me. I'm 16 and I spend half my day semi-conscious/unconscious because I drink a crap load of cough syrup to knock me out, and the other half I spent semi-consciously posting bitchy comments on Gawker.

Then again I probably wouldn't be like this if my parents let me out of the house more/weren't as homophobic towards me.

@maude_flanders: They do teach internet safety (cyberbullying, safety, email etiquette) in schools but I don't think it's in all of them yet.

John Hock was arrested for the incident on June 3, 2009 and charged with two counts of sexual assault. Though news reports at the time of Hock's arrest credited Stone with turning over evidence to the police, he didn't do this until three months after the rape, and only after police served him with a warrant to search his computers.

Our source says:

“ I saw that he was bragging on his website and twitter and fornspring about how he was responsible for getting John Hock arrested, and talking about it as if he volunteered the evidence out of the kindness of his heart.

The truth was that when he found out about the rape, and obtained a recording of it, he just posted about it on his website. He didn't report it to the police and even allowed other posts exposing the victim's identity and calling her a slut.

Meanwhile, myself, and a few other members of the community I'm involved with alerted the pheonix police station immediately. We gave them all the information we could possibly find, and told them about stickydrama because Chris had mentioned having a video of what happened.

The police would have e-mailed him asking for the video, but at that time he didn't have any contact information on his website. They wound up leaving a comment asking him to contact them, which he never did.

Three months later, after they had taken away witness statements, and spoken to the victim, they issued a search warrant for his server, thinking that he may have uploaded the video somewhere on the website. Once that happened, and he found out the reason why they were looking there, he then sent in the video.

@AdrianChen completely false. Produce the warrant you claim I was served, if you can.

CASE NO.: BC449910

DECLARATION OF MICHAEL PALZES
IN SUPPORT OF PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANTS' ANTI-
SLAPP MOTION

[Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendants' ANTI-
SLAPP Motion filed concurrently herewith]

Hearing Date: April 4, 2011
Time: 9:00 AM
Department: 51

Complaint Filed: November 19, 2010
Trial Date: None Set
Judge: Hon. Abraham Khan

I, Michael Palzes, do hereby declare and state as follows:

1. I am a law clerk at the Law Offices of F. Edie Mermelstein. I have personal knowledge of all of the facts stated herein, and if called to testify as a witness, I could and would competently

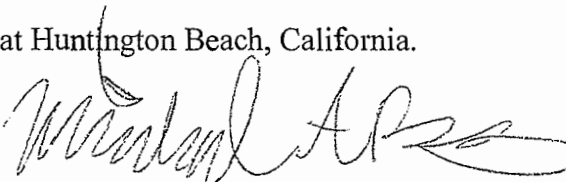

1 testify to them.

2 2. This declaration is submitted in support of Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendant's Anti-
3 SLAPP Motion.

4 3. On or about July 29, 2010, I performed a public google search of the search term
5 "stickydrama." Google results included live updates from the twitter feeds containing the search
6 term "Stickydrama." The third update on the live feed was an update from the Stickydrama twitter
7 account stating, "@stawkkalyssa Lying to @AdrianChen will prove to be a costly and embarrassing
8 mistake. And he will not help you. Twitpic.com/29pubz." I did not need any type of account to 9 access this posting as it was readily viewable by anyone with Internet access. I clicked on the link
10 provided with the threat to our firm's client, Alyssa Backlund. I saw an arial picture of a google
11 map of client's home with her address and the same threat reproduced. I immediately contacted my 12 supervising attorney, Edie Mermelstein, to tlet her know of this violation of our client's privacy. I
13 screen captured the twitter image and attachments. Attached hereto as Exhibit 1 is a true and correct 14 copy of the twitter image and attachments.

16 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the state of California that the foregoing is true
17 and correct.

How do I go about searching for someone?

1. Try searching for them using our free preliminary search on our home page. Enter as much information as possible. When searching for a person whose name may have changed, start with the most recently known name. If that doesn't work, try other name variations. If you only know a person's maiden name there's still a good chance we can locate them.

Having the exact date of birth, middle initial, or city and state will increase your likelihood of success. The uniqueness of their name is also a factor. If your initial search fails to locate the person you're looking for, try using the name of a relative who may know their whereabouts.

If your search returns too many people with similar names, try narrowing your search by entering more specific information such as city and state.

Another method you can try is expanding your search in small increments. For example, try searching without specifying a city. Still didn't find the person? - Try searching all states. Still didn't find the person? Remove the middle initial.

2. Once you've found the person using our free preliminary search, select the search product you wish to purchase and follow the step by step prompts that will lead you through the checkout process.

If you see the person you're searching for but the city/state appears to be older, our Advanced searches will track the person from their previous address up to their most currently reported address. Even a very old address (up to 30 years) can be traced forward to their most recently reported location.

How is a search conducted?

All of our search products access our extensive database network. The more accurate the search criteria you provide, the higher the likelihood that we will find the individual. We then provide a report to you with our findings.

What are public records and publicly available information?

US Search's network of databases contains information from a variety of publicly available sources including government records, court documents, professional licensing organizations, and phone books.

How often are these records updated?

We access various sources, each of which are updated at frequent but different intervals. Typically, it takes 3 to 6 months for a new address to show in our records after a person relocates.

Will someone know if I run a search on him or her?

No. Our searches are completely confidential, and the person being searched for will not know a search has been performed or who has performed it.

Why should I use US Search to search public records?

Although some of the data we provide is publicly available, to gather it yourself would be expensive and time consuming. Moreover, while the information may be publicly available, it is not contained in any one specific location or database. You would need to spend many hours searching various individual databases to find the information that we have consolidated for you. For example, courthouse records are publicly available, but only if you request them in person. Therefore, it is very inconvenient for you to seek these out over multiple counties or states. US Search has a premium database that has compiled information into one location - making it easier for you to access this information.

Which parts of the country can I search public records through US Search?

US Search gathers data from various state and private agencies, and our network extends nationwide. Not all counties and states report the same information. Please check the availability of each specific report for more detailed information.

How do I pay for my search?

US Search accepts all major credit cards. You can also mail in your payment by personal check, cashier check, or money order by calling 1-800-USSEARCH (1-800-877-3272).

What information do I need in order to search for someone?

You can run a search with as little information as a person's first name. However, the more information you provide the greater the likelihood that we find the person you are seeking.

Can you do a search if I only have a woman's maiden name?

It will be difficult to locate an individual if they are no longer using their maiden name, however, it is possible. Having the exact middle initial, or city and state will increase your likelihood of success. The uniqueness of their first name is also a factor. Also, you may try searching for a known male family member who may have contact with the individual.

Can you search for people in other countries?

No. US Search only conducts searches in the United States.

Can you search for people from other countries currently living in the United States?

Yes. If they have been living in the US for over a year, they typically will show up in our network of databases.

Can you search for minors or public figures?

No. In order to protect the identities and safety of minors and public figures, US Search does not provide searches for these types of individuals.

Do your reports say where someone works?

Some of our reports do search for business affiliations which may include place of work. The information provided in these reports is based on publicly reported information and may not contain a complete work history.

Do your reports provide credit history?

No. In order to protect individuals from identity theft and to maintain their privacy, US Search does not provide this information.

Do your reports provide Date of Birth and Social Security Number Information?

No. In order to protect individuals from identity theft and to maintain their privacy, US Search does not provide this information.

Do you provide financial records, such as bank account information?

No. We do not have access to this level of confidential information.

Do you guarantee your results?

We offer a limited "No Result No Charge" guarantee. The details are included below. Please keep in mind that we will do our best to try to locate the individual you are seeking. However, we are limited by the amount and accuracy of the information that you provide. Moreover, we are accessing records that are recorded by public institutions, and reporting the results to you. You are paying for our service of searching for the information, not the results.

What This Guarantee Covers

If your search returns no results, US Search will refund your full purchase price or credit you for a new search

What This Guarantee Does Not Cover

This limited guarantee does not apply if you receive any of the following results:

More Information Required:

At times your search may result in a list of individuals from which you can choose to run a more detailed report. This constitutes results.

Clear court records:

In Court Records inquiries, data is not displayed (i.e., "Clear - Search completed") when the databases US SEARCH accesses do not have any civil or criminal records pertaining to the subject of your search. A "Clear" court record constitutes results and this limited guarantee does not apply. Please note that coverage for court records and criminal conviction records vary from state to state. Please check the availability for the specific product you are ordering by clicking on the "Check Availability" link.

Court Record inquiries include:

- State criminal search
- On premise County courthouse search
- Onsite civil lawsuit search
- Sex offender
- Department of Corrections
- Court Record Search
- Instant State Criminal Search

- Instant Nationwide Criminal Search

Clear Deceased and Real Property searches:

Please also be aware that our Deceased and Real Property searches may return "no records found" as your search result. This means, respectively, that, according to the databases we access, the individual is not deceased or does not own any real property in the coverage area.

Unlimited Instant Search:

In the case of the Unlimited Instant Search, the customer is purchasing a service and not a report. Providing an active account for the purchased time period constitutes fulfillment on our part and the limited guarantee does not apply.

Receipt of Information That Is Not Current, Inaccurate or Incomplete

The databases we access are updated regularly. You may, however, receive a search result that contains information that you believe is not current or is incomplete. Our limited guarantee does not apply to search results that are not current or incomplete.

How Long The Guarantee Lasts

The coverage of this guarantee lasts for 30 days after the date of purchase.

How To Obtain Your Refund or Credit

If you receive no results, contact our customer service department at cservice@ussearch.com.

How State Law Applies

This guarantee gives you specific legal rights, and you may also have other rights which vary from state to state.

How long are reports available after purchase?

All reports will remain available to you in the Member Center for one year after the date of purchase.

I ordered a search. When will I receive my results?

Results are delivered to your account and you may access them in the Member Center. For an additional fee you may have results emailed to you. Standard delivery to an email address is normally within 24 hours or less for most products. Reverse Phone results may take up to 48 hours. On premise and county court records may take several weeks.

Instant results are available for certain services. Rush delivery via e-mail and facsimile is within one hour. If your report is being sent through the US mail, we will mail it within 7-10 business days. Please note: additional charges apply to orders sent via mail and fax.

Priority next day mail will be sent out the same day, if ordered before 2pm PST.

Why did you send me back a list of names?

Sometimes many people match the information you provided in the search criteria. If that is the case, we will send you a list of all the matches so that you can narrow down your search. Please select the person you think is the individual you are seeking, and/or provide additional information to refine your search, and we will complete the search for that individual.

I wasn't able to find the person I was seeking.

You should try to verify the information you provided. For example, are you sure of the spelling of their name and their date of birth? Also, try to gather new information. Perhaps a common friend may know their last known city and state.

Can I provide more information to help you search again?

Yes. If you are able to provide us with more information within 14 days of your original search we will re-run the search at no additional charge.

Why is information I already provided repeated in my report?

We provide you the most current information that our network of public and private databases provides. If we report back the same information that you provided to us that means that the address is either current, that the individual has not been generating any consumer activity at another address, or that the information may not yet have been updated in the databases we access (this typically occurs every 3-6 months). If the individual had been generating activity at another address, they would have shown in our information network.

Common reasons why someone may not be generating consumer activity include: incarceration, death, and hospitalization. Also the individual could be homeless, a fugitive, a minor, a temporary resident in the US, temporarily staying with friends, or they may have changed their name through marriage, etc.

Why is there no phone number?

If no phone number is returned in the report, then the individual either has no telephone number listed in our network of databases, they could be unpublished, or they may be using a cellular or prepaid phone that's not showing up in our databases.

How do I remove myself from these records?

US Search obtains most of the information for our products and services from partners who generally obtain it from public records. We do not maintain or control the public records, and we are unable to remove your name from any public records. We do however offer individuals the ability to lock their information through our PrivacyLock service. If you'd like to use PrivacyLock, please click here.

The information reported in your reports is wrong. Can I update it?

US Search obtains most of the information for our products and services from public record sources. As we do not maintain or control the public records, we are unable to update information on you.

I already placed an order with US SEARCH, but I have a question about my charges. What should I do?

Questions can be addressed by contacting our customer service department at cservice@ussearch.com.

Please include your order number in your correspondence if possible.

Why can't I update my credit card on line?

For security reasons we request you call into the member office to update credit card information.

I'm not happy with my results. Can I get a refund?

No. We will do our best to try to locate the individual you are seeking. However, we are limited by the amount and accuracy of the information that you provide. Moreover, we are accessing public records, and reporting the results to you. Since we incur a cost to perform each search, you are paying for our service not the results.

We value your business and would like to ensure your satisfaction. If you feel that we have made an error that we can correct please contact customer service via email at cservice@ussearch.com. Please include your order number in your correspondence if possible.

I have a question not answered by your FAQs. How do I contact you?

Questions can be addressed by contacting customer service via email at: cservice@ussearch.com. We strive to answer every e-mail within 48 hours.

In addition, any information or message content provided in connection with the Offerings, including the Send a Message Services, is subject to our Privacy Policy.

We do not charge for the Send a Message Services, but if you send a text message, the recipient's cellular carrier's normal messaging, data, and other rates and fees may apply. The Send a Message Services limit email messages to 500 characters and text messages to 160 characters (if your text message is too long, it may be broken into multiple text messages).

In connection with your use of a Send a Message Service, you specifically represent and warrant the following:

- you are at least eighteen (18) years old;
- your use of the Send a Message Service is limited to your own personal, non-commercial use; and

DECLARATION OF CHRISTOPHER STONE

I, Christopher Stone, declare as follows:

1. I am a defendant in the above-entitled action. I am the sole owner of Elite Imaging Concepts, LLC ("EIC"), which owns the service mark "Sticky Drama" and the domain name "stickdrama.com." I have personal knowledge of the facts set forth in this declaration and if called upon to testify under oath, I could and would testify competently thereto.

2. I was the administrator for the website www.stickydrama.com. There is no separate entity with the name "StickyDrama," which is erroneously listed as a defendant in this action. StickyDrama.com's website has not been in operation since July 2010.

3. StickyDrama.com was a tabloid blogging website that followed popular internet personalities. It was free of charge and was accessible to anyone who had access to the internet. Anyone was allowed to submit posts to be published on the website regardless of whether they were registered users. As administrator of the StickyDrama.com, I would publish these posts as they were submitted. Anyone could also directly publish comments about existing posts. All the posts and comments published on StickyDrama.com were viewable by the public.

4. StickyDrama.com was not a social networking website and did not have profile pages of its users.

5. On or about November 20, 2009, a StickyDrama.com user submitted a screenshot of a woman masturbating next to an infant. The screenshot was taken from a broadcast that was streamed live by the woman on Skype. The woman depicted on the screenshot was Alyssa Marie Robertson from Ohio and her name was displayed on the screenshot. The user who submitted the screenshot also included a link to a MySpace.com profile page of the woman she believed to be Ms. Robertson. The name appearing on the MySpace.com profile page was simply "Alyssa Marie."

6. When I received the screenshot and the link, I did a side by side comparison of the MySpace.com profile picture and the screenshot to make sure that the MySpace.com profile page belonged to Ms. Robertson. Based on this careful examination of the two pictures, I believed the two women to be one and the same. In addition to having the same first and middle name, both had

1 the same color hair and length, had the same or similar skin tone, and even had what appeared to be
2 the same bracelet.

3 7. Having been convinced from what I saw that the MySpace.com profile page
4 belonged to Ms. Robertson, I posted the user-submitted screenshot and the link to the 5 MySpace.com profile page on StickyDrama.com and included the following comment: "Early this 6 morning, StickyDrama was sent an image that appears to depict Alyssa Marie Robertson . . .
7 masturbating next to an infant. Such an act, in addition to being morally repugnant, probably 8 violates several statutes pertaining to exposing children to obscenity." The only link I posted at 9 any time next to this screenshot of Ms. Robertson was to the MySpace.com profile page described 10 above. I never mentioned Plaintiff Alyssa Backlund's ("Plaintiff") last name in my comment.

11 8. Later that day, I was contacted by Plaintiff's boyfriend who informed me that the 12 MySpace.com profile page I believed to be Ms. Robertson's actually belonged to Plaintiff. He also 13 provided me a link to Ms. Robertson's profile page to show the difference between. Once I
14 realized my error, I immediately took down the Plaintiff's MySpace.com profile page link from 15 Stickdrama.com. In addition, I published a retraction clarifying that the girl in the screenshot was 16 Ms. Robertson, not Plaintiff. I even offered to publish a separate public apology, but Plaintiff 17 declined.

18 9. Early the next morning, I messaged with Plaintiff online. I again apologized for my 19 honest mistake in believing Plaintiff's MySpace.com profile page was Ms. Robertson's and 20 Plaintiff accepted my apology. Attached hereto and incorporated herein as Exhibit "A" is a true 21 and correct copy of this "instant message" chat.

22 10. In the summer of 2009, Brason Porterfield stayed as a guest in my apartment.
23 During that time, Mr. Porterfield met Plaintiff when she messaged him online. Mr. Porterfield
24 showed me some of their messages. In her messages, Plaintiff expressed a strong interest to meet
25 Mr. Porterfield and he believed that interest to be of a sexual nature. Although flattered, Mr.
26 Porterfield declined to meet Plaintiff. However, Plaintiff's frequency in messaging him only
27 increased with this refusal. Plaintiff begged Mr. Porterfield to meet her. Mr. Porterfield told me
28 that he felt he was being harassed by this unwanted attention and blocked Plaintiff from his online

1 accounts so that she could no longer communicate with him.

2 11. In January 2010, Parker Tammen stayed as a guest in my apartment. Mr. Tammen
3 told me that he had previously met and corresponded with Plaintiff online, but had never met each
4 other in person. During the time that Mr. Tammen stayed with me, Plaintiff would repeatedly
5 message him asking him to meet with her. Mr. Tammen showed me some of their messages. It
6 appeared from the messages and her level of contact with Mr. Tammen that Plaintiff was interested
7 in him sexually. Mr. Tammen told me he was only interested in keeping Plaintiff as an online
8 friend. Plaintiff continued to message Mr. Tammen insistently, requesting to meet despite his 9 polite refusals. Feeling harassed, Mr. Tammen asked me to make Plaintiff stop contacting him.
10 Attached hereto and incorporated herein as Exhibit "B" is a true and correct copy of an affidavit by 11 Mr. Tammen attesting to these events.

12 12. It appeared from Plaintiff's behavior that she was not accepting Mr. Tammen's
13 refusals to see her. This behavior was consistent with her harassment of Mr. Porterfield the year
14 before. Therefore, my only goal was to send a strongly worded message to Plaintiff in order to 15 make her stop harassing Mr. Tammen. To that end, in February 2010, I sent a "tweet" to Plaintiff
16 telling her that her topless picture she sent to Mr. Tammen would be exposed if she contacted him
17 again. Included with the message was a "Twitpic" link to a screenshot of a "chat" between 18 Plaintiff and Mr. Tammen so that she could identify the person who I wanted her to stop 19 contacting. Attached hereto and incorporated herein as Exhibit "C" is a true and correct copy of 20 that screenshot. I neither posted any picture of Plaintiff nor made reference to any health condition
21 in this "tweet."

22 13. Beginning early 2010, I became aware of a series of articles published on 23 Gawker.com that defamed me. One such article, published in July 2010, stated that I had sent a
24 "tweet" to "Sarah," a 19 year-old girl that included a Twitpic link to a topless picture of the girl she 25 sent to a friend "a couple of years ago." The article initially printed that the picture of the girl was 26 when she was "underage."¹ An image of the tweet with the link was shown in the article. I

27
28 ¹ Gawker.com subsequently crossed out that word.

1 immediately identified "Sarah" to be Plaintiff from the image of the "tweet." Attached hereto and
2 incorporated herein by reference as Exhibit "D" is a true and correct copy of this July 2010
3 Gawker.com article.

4 14. The statements concerning the Twitpic link being to a photo of Plaintiff were false
5 because, as described above, the Twitpic link was not to a picture of Plaintiff but to a screenshot of 6 one of Plaintiff's chats with Mr. Tammen. Moreover, the article suggested that I was continuing to 7 threaten Plaintiff with her topless photo and that I threaten other young people in similar ways. In 8 truth, I did not continue to threaten her with posting the picture nor have I threatened others in a 9 similar fashion.

10 15. I believed that the statements made by Plaintiff in the Gawker.com article defamed
11 me because it was false and because it portrayed me as engaging in illegal acts. I sent a cease and 12 desist letter to Plaintiff demanding that she retract her allegations that she was underage and that I
13 had tweeted a link of her topless photo. Attached hereto and incorporated herein as Exhibit "E" is 14 a true and correct copy of my cease and desist letter to Plaintiff. Plaintiff never responded to my 15 letter. Having no choice, I therefore decided to sue Plaintiff in small claims court for her
16 defamation of me to the author of the Gawker.com article. Even after the lawsuit was filed, I
17 offered to dismiss it if Plaintiff retracted her defamatory statements to Gawker. Again, Plaintiff did 18 not respond to my offer. Attached hereto and incorporated herein as Exhibit "F" is a true and 19 correct copy of this letter I sent to Plaintiff.

20 16. In making the above-referenced statements with the Gawker.com author, I believed 21 that Plaintiff was conspiring with a handful of young women around the country who have 22 defamed me to Gawker.com. My belief was reasonable because I had observed them tweeting at 23 each other on Twitter. I therefore subpoenaed several social networking websites to obtain the 24 identities of these women so that I could establish their conspiracy with Plaintiff or at least 25 Plaintiff's intent to defame me.

26 17. Once I realized that Plaintiff had defamed me to Gawker.com, and before I sent any 27 cease and desist letters to Plaintiff, I posted a tweet that while suing Gawker.com would be
28 expensive, it would be easier to sue Plaintiff. I revealed Plaintiff as being the one who defamed me

EXHIBIT 5

In an investigative report shown on LA's Fox 11 July 8th, reporter Phil Shuman explores the scary new phenomenon called "sextortion":

“A new type of blackmail is trapping teenagers, especially those who have sent provocative pictures to friends. Hackers are stealing those photos and threatening their senders.”

The segment was part of a "FOX 11 Investigates" piece, but they obviously did not do any investigation into their sextortion "expert," 31-year-old Christopher Stone. Stone owns the sleazy teen gossip site StickyDrama, and the even sleazier amateur porn site sticky-noudz.com. And any expertise Stone has in sextortion comes from his own attempts at bullying a teenaged girl into silence by threatening to release topless pictures of her.

Re: Small Claims Subpoena
Case No.: 10M08579 (Hearing Date November 19, 2010)

Dear Mr. Clarke:

The Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District (GCCCD) recently received the enclosed small claims subpoena with regards to the above referenced case. The subpoena requested the production of GCCCD student Donita Kennedy's (or Dona Kennedy's) home address, mailing address, date of birth, and e-mail address.

After receipt of the subpoena, the District performed a database search in order to produce the student's information. However, the District was unable to locate any student by the name of "Dona Kennedy" or "Donita Kennedy." Consequently, the District is unable to respond to the small claims subpoena issued. However, the District can confirm that the IP address that is indicated in the subpoena is the IP address assigned to Cuyamaca College, one of the Colleges operated by the District.

If you should have any questions with regard to this letter, please feel free to contact me at (619) 644-7575.

Very truly yours,

Sue Rearic

SC-105 Item 3

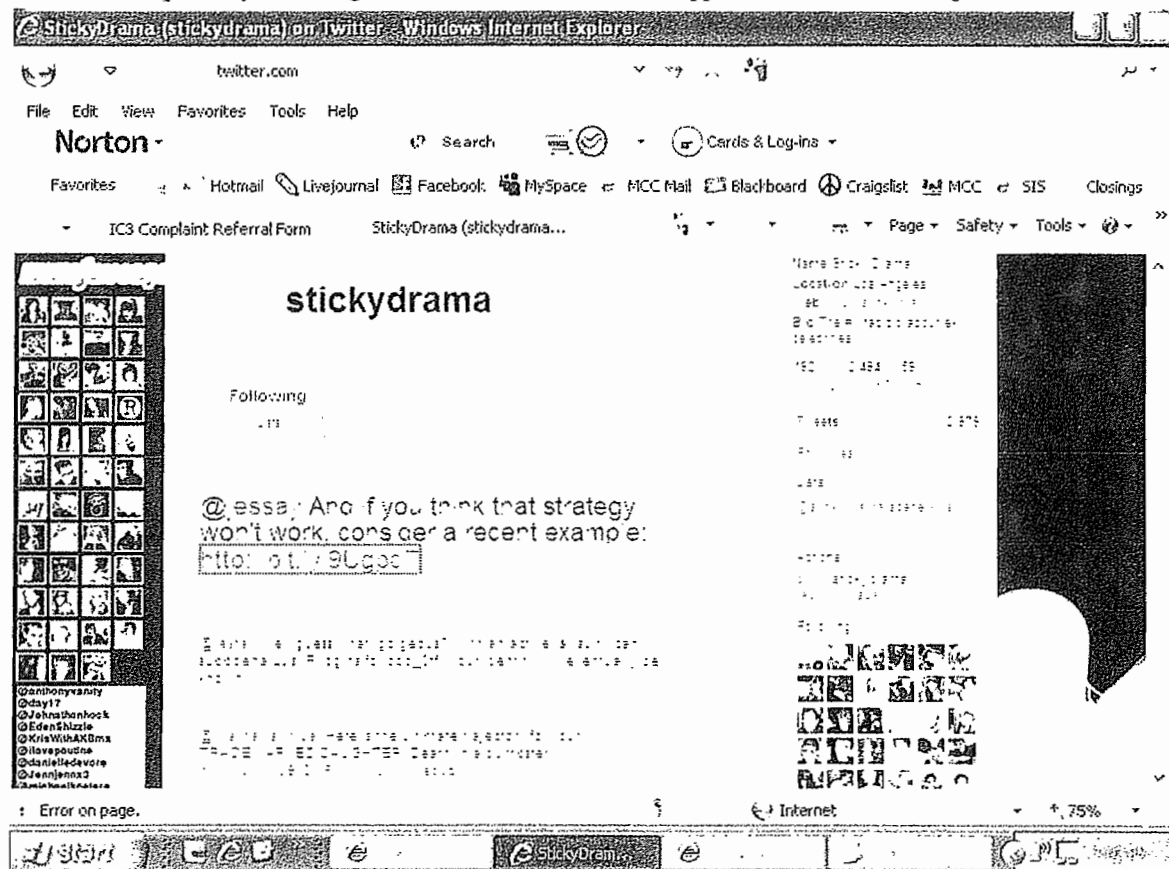

At this time, I, Jessica Mack, will also move for a protective order preventing the Plaintiff from issuing any future subpoenas to Twitter or any other individual or entity that might possess identity-related information, communications, or other records regarding me.

In support of this motion, I will rely on the attached brief.

Date: 10/11/2010

Jessica Mack

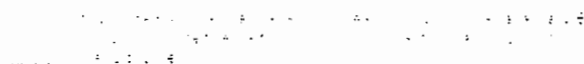

First, <http://twitter.com/jessay> is not the account of the defendant, Alyssa Backlund, therefore she does not use that account to "libel" the plaintiff, Christopher Stone, as he claims. The evidence requested: name, location, e-mail, date of birth, IP address, dates of use, file uploads, and history of abuse complaints are information that I gave twitter in confidence, and information that have nothing to do with the case against Ms. Backlund. The plaintiff has no right, nor reason to obtain this information, and has displayed careless disregard of my objections to the publishing of information that he has already acquired on me through other sources, possibly including a lawsuit he filed and then dropped on the website live journal.com

Tweets directed at me from the plaintiff's twitter <http://twitter.com/stickydrama>. They have since been deleted.

The Plaintiff, Christopher Stone, is using this lawsuit to obtain personal information which is irrelevant to the case. He admitted to me that he was going file a subpoena for my information for another case of slander he had against live journal a few months ago. He detailed how he did this in the past in an article on his website (the link he gave me went to the story while his website was still active. But the story still exists here: <http://asksticky.com/2009/12/02/stickydrama-sues-stickam-godaddy-router-lawsuit-might-prove-routers-true-identity>)

He dropped the live journal lawsuit for reasons undisclosed, though he admitted that there was no slander in the first place:

A tweet from the plaintiff's twitter <http://twitter.com/stickydrama>. When people questioned his lawsuit. It has since been deleted

I viewed this as a threat, as he is known to post addresses and phone numbers of people who he gets into arguments with on the internet. He has led me to believe that he wants to post my information publicly, putting myself and my family in danger.

He has already given out an address that I used to live at, causing the family who lives there currently a great deal of worry. They do not want their information posted.

Tweets directed at <http://www.twitter.com/veganbombshell> from the plaintiff's twitter <http://twitter.com/stickyrama>, detailing how he has used people's addresses before.

I have asked the plaintiff to stop, and I've blocked him from online communications with me, yet he's still harassing me by including me in lawsuits, sending the police to an address where he thought I lived, and posting this information online. He is aware that I do not want this to happen, and he is aware that I want him to leave me alone, but he has proven again and again that he will not go away. He is behaving in a very disturbing manner, and I feel as though he's trying to cyber stalk me. His persistence leads me to ask for a protective order so that, even if this subpoena is quashed, I am protected from him filing more lawsuits and trying to obtain this information again. He has already filed enough frivolous lawsuits through your court, and he is clearly abusing process by filing lawsuits with ulterior motives.

If you allow this subpoena to go through, you will be allowing him to obtain more information on me, only giving him the ability to keep stalking and victimizing me. It would also give him information which he could use or give to others to hack into my accounts, spam me, and impersonate me.

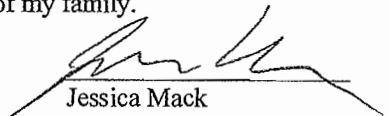

I believe that he has committed acts which qualify as stalking:

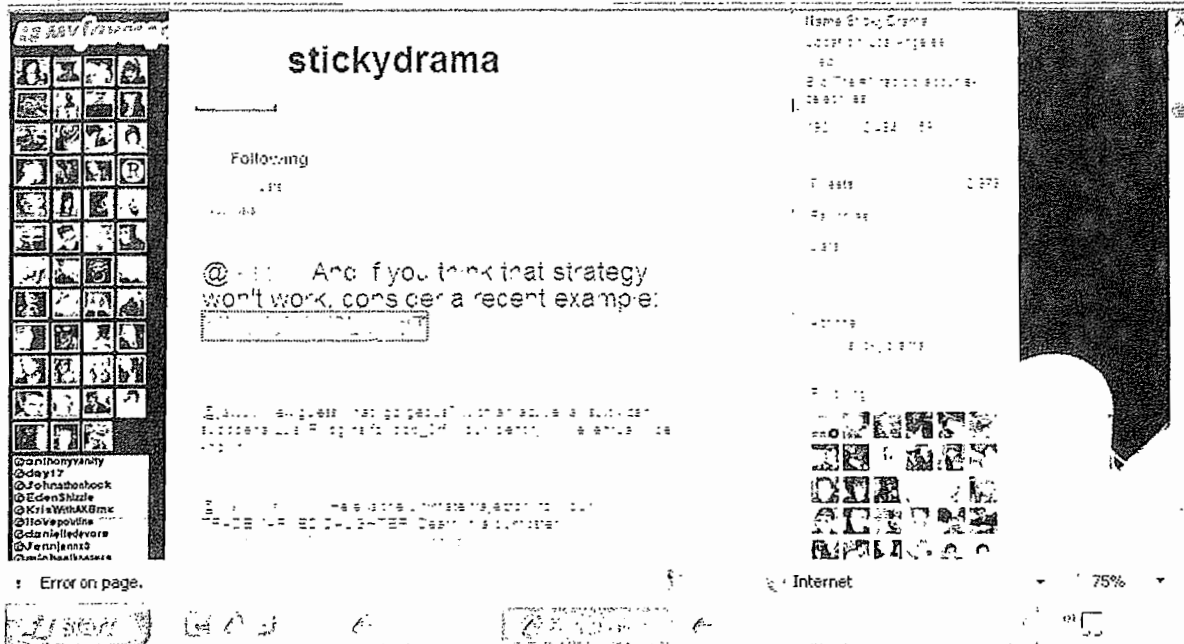

(a) Purposely, knowingly, or recklessly engages in a course of conduct targeted at a specific person which would cause a reasonable person to fear for his or her personal safety or the safety of a member of that person's immediate family, and the person is actually placed in such fear.

Posting my personal information without my consent makes me a target for harassment and puts myself and my family in danger. There are many examples on the internet when someone posted the address of another person who they didn't like, which led them to receive harassment, death threats, vandalism, and fear for their personal safety. A person doesn't have to give orders or write a direct threat in this scenario, as taunting me with my previous addresses is like someone calling me on the phone and saying "I know where you live." Filing lawsuits, buying information, and scouring the internet is like following someone home to find their address. Posting someone's address is singling them out in a public forum, making people more likely to target them.

Please quash the subpoena to twitter for my protection, and the protection of my family.

RECEIVED
OCT 19 2010
DEPT. 90

RE: Subpoena sent to MySpace in Christopher Stone v. Alyssa Marie Backlund, Case No. 10M08579

Dear Clerk:

MySpace, Inc. ("MySpace") has received the attached subpoena dated October 1, 2010, in the above-referenced matter. MySpace is a resident of California, and the records you seek are retrievable from California. We write to object formally and to inform you that your subpoena as issued fails to conform to California law requirements for out-of-state litigants to subpoena records from a non-party California resident. The subpoena was not properly served under California law which requires personal service on MySpace's registered agent for service of process.

Accordingly, we object to your subpoena and will be unable to respond further to your request unless, and until, MySpace is properly served with a valid subpoena.

Also, your subpoena also requests production of certain user content, such as private messages. Because federal law prohibits MySpace from disclosing the contents of user communications and the contents of stored user files to private third parties, MySpace is not producing these materials. Specifically, MySpace is prohibited from lawfully producing the contents of a user's private mail messages or stored content files held or maintained on behalf of a user to a government entity except pursuant to specified legal process, and in all cases to any non-government entity, by the Stored Communications Act ("SCA") 18 U.S.C. §§ 2702-2703. In Theofel v. Farey-Jones, 359 F.3d 1066 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 125 S. Ct. 48 (2004), the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals confirmed that the contents of e-mail messages held by a provider of an electronic communications service for less than 180 days may be deemed to be "in electronic storage," as that term is defined by 18 U.S.C. § 2510(17). 18 U.S.C. § 2702(a)(1) states that "[a] person or entity providing an electronic communication service to the public shall not knowingly divulge to any person or entity the contents of a communication while in electronic storage by that service . . ." (emphasis added). The Ninth Circuit recently reaffirmed this holding in Quon v. Arch Wireless, No. 07-55282, --- F.3d ---, 2008 WL 2440559 (9th Cir. June 18, 2008).

Similarly, 18 U.S.C. § 2702(a)(2) provides that "a person or entity providing remote computing service to the public shall not knowingly divulge to any person or entity the contents of any communication which is carried or maintained on that service— . . . on behalf of, and received by means of electronic transmission from (or created by means of computer processing of communications received by means of electronic transmission from), a subscriber or customer of such service . . ." (emphasis added). The materials protected from disclosure by Section 2702(a)(2) include MySpace user content such as friend lists, photos, blogs and private messages over 180 days old.

The Court of Appeals of California has also acknowledged the SCA's prohibitions in O'Grady v. Superior Court, 2006 Cal. App. LEXIS 802, *2-3 (Ct. App. Cal. May 26, 2006). In that case, a civil plaintiff sent subpoenas to an email service provider in order to obtain evidence relating to theft of trade secrets. Id. The appellate court rejected the plaintiff's argument that the SCA contained an implied exception for civil discovery, and concluded that the subpoena violated the SCA. Id. at *3.

Accordingly, the SCA prohibits MySpace from making the disclosure sought by your subpoena. Thus, if these documents are truly integral to the instant case, the clearly available mechanism for obtaining them is for you to subpoena the owner of the MySpace accounts in question directly, or for you to obtain the owner of the account's consent to the disclosure by MySpace.

We trust that after you have had an opportunity to review the above-cited authorities, you will agree that MySpace is prohibited from lawfully disclosing the records you seek in response to your subpoena.

Sincerely,

CASE NO.: BC449910

DECLARATION OF ALYSSA
BACKLUND IN SUPPORT OF
PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO
DEFENDANTS' ANTI-SLAPP MOTION

*[Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendants' ANTI-
SLAPP Motion filed concurrently herewith]*

Hearing Date: April 4, 2011

Time: 9:00 AM

Department: 51

Complaint Filed: November 19, 2010

Trial Date: None Set

Judge: Hon. Abraham Khan

I, Alyssa Backlund, do hereby declare and state as follows:

1. I am the Plaintiff in the above. I have personal knowledge of all of the facts stated herein, and if called to testify as a witness, I could and would competently testify to them.

2. This declaration is submitted in support of Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendant's Anti-SLAPP Motion.

3. On November 20, 2009, in the morning on my way to work a twitter user with the screen name @KriswithaK_ text messaged me to call him. I called his cell phone number and he berated and belittled me screaming that I was disgusting and he couldn't believe that I would perform sex acts online with an infant. I asked him to tell me what was going on and he referred me to the Stickydrama website. As soon as I arrived at work, I typed in my computer www.stickydrama.com and on the front page, smack dab in the middle, I saw my twitter account linked with a posting, "@stawkkalyssa aka Alyssa Marie Robertson, Most Vile Camwhore Alive, Faps with Infant." There I saw a picture of a teenage girl that was supposedly me laying down on a bed masturbating with a baby next to her. Her legs were spread and she was engaged in a sexual act. I started reading the comments that were filled with hate and disgust that were directed towards me. Gradually throughout the day I started seeing more hate comments that flooded in to my twitter, Myspace, Stickam and even my personal cell phone. I was horrified and distraught and could not concentrate at my job so I left early without pay. Attached hereto as Exhibit 1 is a true and correct copy of a screen capture I printed after logging onto my Stickam account on the night of November 20, 2009.

4. On November 20, 2009, after I left work early, I decided I could not bring myself to attend my night class so I went over to my friend Amanda Hedgecock's house. I was screaming and crying and explained to Amanda and her mother that I was being wrongfully accused of masturbating next to an infant. I notified my father and called the Garden Grove Police Department. A police officer responded, however he said that since the photograph was not me that it was a civil matter. I reached out for help from my friend Jack Brown to help clear my name and reputation. I contacted Christopher Stone through AOL Instant Messenger ("AIM") to tell him that the obscene photograph was not me and to take the photograph and my links down. Stone did not reply. Jack Brown called me and told me that he found the 17-year-old Alyssa Marie Robertson on Facebook and that she was blackmailed into performing sex acts on Skype. This information was presented to Stone again and he finally posted a correction stating, "CORRECTION: Alyssa Marie Robertson, not Buckland

1 [sic], Masturbates next to Infant.” I was so humiliated. Although Stone posted this correction, he
2 failed to remove links to my online profiles including my twitter account and my MySpace account.
3 I lost sleep, had an upset stomach, couldn’t eat, and still to this day the false posting causes me
4 great anxiety.

5 5. Around 5:00 PM – 6:00 PM on the evening of November 20, 2009, I searched for tweets
6 using the search term “stawkkalyssa nudes” and I found two messages from the twitter account
7 twotone11. I screen captured the message which states that the teenager engaged in the sexual act
8 next to the infant was only 17 years old. Attached hereto as Exhibit 1 is a true and correct copy of a 9 screen capture of twitter postings from the screen name twotone11.

10 6. In approximately the beginning of 2008, while I was 17 years old, I had a friend who said
11 his name was Gage Arthur. Gage introduced me to his friend Parker Tammen online. Parker
12 resided in Mississippi and we started up an online friendship via AIM, MySpace, cell phone, and 13 Stickam. We took a romantic interest in each other and Parker asked me for nude pictures of 14 myself. On November 19, 2008, I sent Parker topless photos where I had written Parker on my 15 stomach with a pen so he would know these pictures were for his eyes only. Throughout our 16 messages, I expressed to him that I trusted him and if he ever publicly posted them I would never 17 forgive him. Attached hereto as Exhibit 3 is a true and correct copy of a screen capture I saved and 18 printed from online communication via MySpace that I had with Parker Tammen on November 19, 19 2008.

20 7. At some point in time, I think around the end of 2009, or early 2010, I met Parker in person
21 when he moved from Mississippi to Los Angeles and into Christopher Stone’s self-proclaimed
22 “Stickyhouse.” When I met Parker I no longer had a romantic interest in him. Not long after,
23 sometime in late January 2010 or early February 2010 I met up with Gage Arthur and Parker
24 Tammen who were both living at the Stickyhouse and walked around Hollywood Boulevard with 25 them. Shortly after that, Christopher Stone found out I hung out with boys in his house and this 26 made him angry. On the morning of February 7, 2010, I noticed my twitter account linked on 27 Stickydrama’s twitter feed. The message stated, “@stawwkalyssa Message him again, and your 28

1 floppy titties are spammed all over the place. Last warning.” There was a link
2 <http://twitpic.com/11vw09> - which I clicked and was brought to a topless photograph that I
3 recognized as one of the photos I took and sent to Parker Tammen. The name Parker was written on 4 my stomach. Attached hereto as Exhibit 4 is a true and correct copy of a screen capture of the 5 twitter posting from Christopher Stone’s stickydrama twitter account that I saved on February 7, 6 2010.

7 8. After I saw that Christopher Stone had possession of my topless photo and had linked it on 8 twitpic, I contacted Parker Tammen via AIM asking him how Stone got possession of my photo and 9 he said that Stone went on Parker’s MySpace account and stole them. I then asked Parker to ask
10 Stone to take them down and that I thought those were taken when I was 17 years old and still a 11 minor. Shortly after, I went online and the twitpic was removed. Parker asked me to thank him for 12 getting Stone to take it down. Parker continued to contact me throughout the year, however I had no
13 romantic interest in him. On June 18, 2010, Parker direct messaged me on twitter and said, “Come 14 see me.” At that point I was in a committed relationship, and to my knowledge I did not respond to 15 him. Attached hereto is a true and correct copy of a screen capture I saved of the June 18, 2010,
16 direct message from Parker Tammen.

17 9. In July 2010, I saw a post of an interview with Christopher Stone on Fox News Channel 11,
18 posing as a “sextortion” expert. Adrian Chen an online investigative reporter from Gawker.com
19 contacted me via MySpace. Adrian said that he noticed a threat Christopher Stone had made in a
20 post and wanted to ask me questions for an article because Stone had been harassing numerous
21 teenage girls. I called Adrian Chen at the number he provided and gave him an interview with facts
22 as I perceived them. I told Adrian that I was scared of Stone and that he had stolen topless
23 photographs of me and had been exploiting me. An online article ran exposing Stone as more than a 24 sextortion expert, but a 31-year-old pornographer who threatens to expose unlawfully obtained nude
25 photographs of teenage girls for publicity for his Stickydrama website.

26 10. Shortly after the online Gawker article was posted Stone threatened me publicly accusing
27 me of lying and stating that lying to Adrian Chen will prove to be a costly and embarrassing
28

1 mistake. With this threat, Stone linked my address and an aerial view of my house from Google
2 maps. I was scared, I called the police again and the police said that they could do some brief patrol
3 around my house and calmed me down a little. The police also talked to my father.

4 11. I hired an attorney to advise me on how to handle the situation with Stone and Stickydrama.
5 Stone ultimately filed a small claims action against me for defamation per se. He issued subpoenas
6 to attempt to garner information from two girls, Kristen Ostrenga and Jessica Mack. I do not know
7 these girls and the information Stone was seeking is completely unrelated to the baseless claim he 8 made against me in small claims court. I believe that Stone filed a claim against me as a cheap
9 alternative to get protected information from other teenage girls and because he didn't want to spend 10 the money to go after Adrian Chen in New York. Even though I have no ability to control any 11 content on the Gawker website, Stone continued to cyber bully and threaten me regarding the article.
12 To this day I am still scared of Christopher Stone. The reason I am scared of Stone is because I
13 don't know what lengths he will go to in order to embarrass, harass and/or exploit me.

14
15 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the state of California that the foregoing is true
16 and correct.

18 Executed on March 21, 2011 at Huntington Beach, California.
